Youth Arrested

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—The visiting mayor of Moscow was splattered with a raw egg Friday by a man local residents said they thought was the son of a Lithuanian refugee who suffered under Communist rule.

Ged Janusonis, 20, of this city, was arrested in connection with the incident and charged with disturbing the peace. He was released on $200 bail.

The incident occurred while Mayor Nikoli Bobrovnikov was posing for photographs in front of the province of Ontario's Refectory Restaurant at Queen Victoria Park near Niagara Falls.

While sightseers were making way for television star Hugh O'Brian (Wyatt Earp) who was to pose with the visiting Russian mayor, a man walked calmly through ranks of plainclothes police, took the egg from his pocket and hurled it, striking the mayor on the neck.

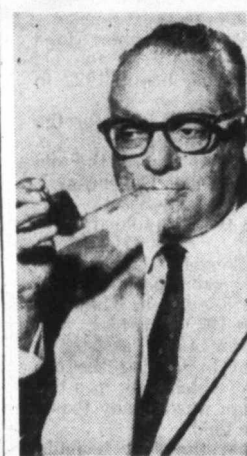

The egg splattered members of the mayor's party, including O'Brian.

Mayor Bobrovnikov casually allowed his coat to be cleaned off and instructed photographers to continue taking photographs.

Also in the party and sprinkled with parts of the egg were Mayor George Nelms of Ottawa and interpreter William Kereluk, an RCAP squadron leader.

"The fellow came up from behind," said photographer Roy Crogan. "The first thing I knew, O'Brian flung up his arm trying to ward off the egg. But it was too late."

Assassins Miss President

CARACAS (AP)—Hidden assassins set off a dynamite blast by remote control in a parked car alongside Venezuela's President Romulo Betancourt Friday, but he escaped with only minor injuries.

The cabinet was called into emergency session. The blast of the cached explosives killed three persons and injured eight.

Interior Minister Luis Augusto Dubuc blamed the attack on followers of deposed dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez and "foreign enemies" of Venezuela—"concretely, the dictatorship of the Dominican Republic."

About two hours after the blast, the government announced closure of the country's borders and airports. There was no explanation but it seemed probable a revolt was in the wind, or the government feared one.

Next Crash Due Nov. 18, 1970

CALGARY (CP)—A U.S. economist predicted Friday his country's economy will crash Nov. 18, 1970, at 10.30 a.m.

Dr. Arthur Upgren, professor of economics at Maclester College, St. Paul, Minn., told a meeting of the Calgary Life Underwriters Association that Canada would not be involved in the disaster because of its stable banking system.

Banks in the United States, however, will have difficulty financing a tremendous expansion in the next decade and loan ratios will increase. The country's liquid reserves will fall as loan ratios rise.

When the liquidity rate reaches 30 per cent, he said, it would be a good time for Canadians to sell their interests in U.S. companies. The bust would come at 10.30 a.m. Nov. 18, 1970, because most crises come in November and bank clearings take place at that time of day.

Council Seeks New Plan

By R. O. MARRION

City council, its View Street parking and mall plan defeated at the polls, will seek some other way of preventing downtown deterioration from traffic and parking congestion.

"There's no use being downhearted. We've just got to put our thinking caps on, every one of us," Ald. Arthur Dowell said yesterday, and Mayor Percy Scurrell and the rest of council agreed.

ENQUIRY

For a start, council approved a suggestion by Ald. Hugh Ramsay that it enquire into the possibility of the Vancouver Downtown Parking Corporation extending its non-profit operations to Victoria.

And Ald. M. H. Mooney said he has "an entirely different plan" under study, which he hopes to be able to present to the next meeting.

IT'S WELCOME

"It will be very welcome," said Mayor Scurrell, "I can assure you of that—any plan that promises some possibility of improving the situation."

Council filed the bylaw defeated at the polls, and the companion bylaw to establish a meter-revenue reserve fund for the parking-facility debt redemption.

PUT IN ARCHIVES

"Put it in the archives," Ald. Dowell said.

But council may still establish a reserve fund for parking facilities. It asked the finance committee to consider this matter.

Ald. Rev. J. L. W. McLean wondered what council should infer from the defeat of the bylaw—"How are we to interpret the result of the vote? Are we through trying to do something, or is it just this plan that was turned down?"

PARTICULAR PLAN

"I think it was just this particular plan," Mayor Scurrell replied, adding that the problem remained and "it's up to us to find some other way of alleviating the situation."

Ald. McLean suggested that council might have been looking at the problem from one angle instead of several, including the shoppers.

REAL CONCERN

"Well, speaking for myself, there was real concern on my part to see it go through because I can foresee the effect it's going to have on downtown property if we don't grapple with the problem some way

Airliner, 51 Lost In Brazilian Bay

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—A twin-engine Brazilian airliner with 51 persons aboard crashed Friday night in Guanabara Bay and search teams said they found no survivors.

The crash was confirmed by navy search teams who found pieces of wreckage floating in the bay about 10 miles from downtown Rio.

The Real Aerovias plane, headed here from Brasilia, was believed to be carrying 34 members of Brazil's parliament going home for the weekend.

The airliner, unable to land because of bad weather, circled Rio for some time before heading out over Guanabara Bay.

The plane last reported to the tower at Santos Dumont airport here it was approaching the field at an altitude of about 1,800 feet near an island in the bay.

After this report, the plane's radio suddenly went off. It was raining at the time.

Real Airlines said the Con-vaire left Brasilia with 17 passengers and a crew of three. It picked up 31 passengers at Belo Horizonte about half way between Rio and Brasilia.

Heath to Run In Nanaimo

NANAIMO—City Liberals last night nominated Hugh B. Heath, 37, a barrister here for the past 10 years, as their candidate in the next B.C. election.

It was the first nomination of any political party for the seat, held by Social Credit's Recreation Minister Earle C. Westwood.

Keeper Fears for Bear Loose in Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—Curator Alan Best of Stanley Park Zoo warned Friday that a bear is loose in the park.

He said it's the bear he's worried about, not the visitors.

The bear is a tiny, 12-pound cub brought here from Hundred-Mile House in the B.C. Interior, where it was orphaned by hunters.

Island to Idaho: 700 Miles in Month

Note, Bottle Found in Fish—It's True!

This fish story is told by Michael Cross, 22, assistant lighthouse keeper at Sheringham, on the west coast of Vancouver Island 30 miles from Victoria.

Even he finds it difficult to believe—but he has a letter to prove it.

A month ago he placed a note with his address on it in a bottle and tossed it into the Pacific Ocean.

Last week he received a letter from a girl in Lewiston, Idaho, which said she found his note and the bottle—inside a 46½-inch silver salmon.

She had caught the fish in the Snake River, a tributary of the Columbia.

Nancy Struve, 641 Eighth Ave., Lewiston, was cleaning the fish when she found the prize. She wrote: "I was really happy . . . my friends didn't believe me at first, so I showed them the bottle."

The fish apparently picked up the bottle somewhere between Sheringham and Portland. Then it covered about 320 miles up the Columbia to the Snake River. Total distance to Lewiston is close to 700 miles.

"The more I think of it the more I realize how fantastic it is," said Mr. Cross. "Bottles get washed up on the beach every day but they don't get into the middle of the United States by fish express every-day."

"I'll be lucky if anyone believes it. That's why I'm hanging on to the original letter."

With G. E. Mortimore

WATCH out for model airplane glue—it can injure the brain. So says the American Temperance Society in Listen Magazine.

Teen-aged youngsters have taken to inhaling the fumes from glue for "kicks." It makes them intoxicated. It also damages liver and brain, and may damage bone marrow cells permanently.

The fumes of glue solvents—chloroform, carbon tetrachloride, acetone, ethylene dichloride, toluene and xylene—may cause insanity.

Anyone who works with plastic cement should be sure there is plenty of fresh air in the room.

Mrs. E. A. Vincent, press secretary to the Seventh-Day Adventist Church, drew this to my attention. I don't know whether I should thank her. She has given me one more thing to worry about. I had enough worries already.

Private enterprise built Victoria's harbor seaplane float, says T. H. Cressy, veteran Victoria airways man and Conservative candidate in the coming provincial election.

"The first float was used by Eddie Hubbard, flying the Seattle air mail. This was moored near the present one, but was only two logs lashed together in 1921 to 1922.

"The second was opposite the Empress Hotel steps, just a flat float, used mostly by the old Canadian Air Board patrol flying boats, 1922 to 1924.

"The first commercial float was built for the Alaska-Washington Airways by the Home Oil Co. in 1930, and moored at a spot where the old chemical plant operated in the Inner Harbor.

"This was used for the first Seattle-Vancouver-Victoria airplane run (which) folded up in 1932.

"In 1935 or 1936 the Western Canada Airways moved the float to the present position, until they were made to move to Esquimalt. They operated from there from about 1939 to 1946.

"I do not think the city ever built or assisted in any flying operations, except in loaning the old Lansdowne field a road roller, which sank into the turf, leaving a bigger hole than was already there. We were glad to see it off the field.

"This was in 1928, when the first triangle service was put into operation by the B.C. Airways land planes (Ford tri-motor)."

The company later made its own roller, pulled by a tractor. The heavy rollers were there until building of the Lansdowne school began.

"History comes on pretty fast," Mr. Cressy said. "They should put up a plaque saying 'This was the site of the original Victoria airport.'"

"It would be handy if there still was an airport there," I said. "For light planes."

"The hospital nearby," said Mr. Cressy. "That was the trouble. Complaints of noise. And after they had built houses on the old Willows grounds, flying became too dangerous there."

Some movie theatres are using teaser tactics to attract customers, a colleague claims.

"I went to a movie labelled 'adult entertainment only,'" he says. "Half the patrons in there were under 10 or 12 years old."

"The movie really was unfit for children, too. Seems that some of the theatres use 'adult entertainment' as a come-on, to bring people in."

Elections Ease Congo Tension

LEOPOLDVILLE (Reuters)

The Congolese Parliament Friday elected Joseph Kasavubu president of the Congo and endorsed rival Patrice Lumumba as premier.

The voting, apparently the result of a last-minute compromise between the two leaders, sent a wave of relief through this tense capital of the colony which becomes independent Thursday.

But 34-year-old Lumumba and his Congolese Nationalist Movement now face a threat from another quarter—Moïse Tshombe, leader of the Conakat party, which holds power in copper-rich Katanga province.

Tshombe Friday complained of inadequate representation in Lumumba's cabinet and made another veiled threat to lead Katanga into secession.

Lumumba presented his coalition cabinet to Parliament for approval after declaring he would follow "a neutral position between two blocs which divide the world."

He appealed to missionaries, Belgian industrialists and settlers to stay in the country and continue bringing technical civilization to the Congo.

Hospital Costs Big Vote Issue

FREDERICTON (CP)—The Progressive Conservatives and Liberals of New Brunswick are on a one-way street that ends Monday at the ballot box.

In the race for the 52 seats in the provincial legislature, the system of financing hospital insurance appears to have superseded all other issues.

The Liberals say the $50 yearly charges to families and $25 for the unmarried can be eliminated and paid from general revenue. The Tories say more taxation and reduced services would be in store if the Liberals won.

Premier Hugh John Flemming says the only alternative to premiums is "that harsh and dreary six or seven per cent sales tax."

Liberal leader Louis Robitaille answered the sales tax threat has never been considered by his party. Costs would be paid, "from the general revenues of New Brunswick which are capable of carrying it."

A four-cent sales tax in 1952 led to the end of 17 years of Liberal rule and brought Premier Flemming to power. The PCs campaigned to aim at its abolition. The tax has been reduced to three per cent.

Mr. Chevrier said there was a "political tinge" to the contract awarded Autair, which had done work for Quebec's Union Nationale government.

He repeated previous allegations that Autair flew on the Quebec jobs without an air transport licence and was turned down by the air transport board as not being financially responsible and because of its safety record.

He said the firm had six crashes last year and four this year, had its insurance cancelled twice, and was flying because Mr. Hees overruled the air transport board and gave it a licence.

Mr. Chevrier, former Liberal transport minister, suggested Autair won government jobs and flying permits through political pull. The minister denied it.

He also denied that Autair got its contract although its rates were not the lowest of several firms. Autair quoted the lowest rates for 100-hour-a-month flying time, he said.

Nor had the department given rival Okanagan Helicopters, a letter stating it was the lowest bidder and would get the job.

Mr. Chevrier said there was a "political tinge" to the contract awarded Autair, which had done work for Quebec's Union Nationale government.

He repeated previous allegations that Autair flew on the Quebec jobs without an air transport licence and was turned down by the air transport board as not being financially responsible and because of its safety record.

He said the firm had six crashes last year and four this year, had its insurance cancelled twice, and was flying because Mr. Hees overruled the air transport board and gave it a licence.

Mr. Chevrier, former Liberal transport minister, suggested Autair won government jobs and flying permits through political pull. The minister denied it.

He also denied that Autair got its contract although its rates were not the lowest of several firms. Autair quoted the lowest rates for 100-hour-a-month flying time, he said.

Nor had the department given rival Okanagan Helicopters, a letter stating it was the lowest bidder and would get the job.

Ratepayers Say 'No'

WHEN a civic proposal which has been thoroughly canvassed and explained to the public is defeated by a two-to-one vote of the ratepayers that ought to settle the matter for the present. There can be no room for doubt about the wishes of the ratepayers with respect to the civic mall and parking building by-law, despite the fact that it had the unanimous support of the city council. As the years go by popular feeling may or may not undergo change if the downtown parking problem becomes acute, but for the time being there would be no point in modifying the plan for yet another submission in the form of a money bylaw.

Mayor Scurrah has accepted the rebuff to the council and its planners in good part, as a demonstration of the democratic way of settling contentious public questions. He has suggested two causes of public dissatisfaction with the plan: "unjustified" fear of an increase in taxes, and the prospect of having present parking meter fees increased to pay off the proposed $1,000,000 loan. He may have missed a third, and perhaps the most telling factor: marked public feeling that parking facilities for the benefit of downtown business should not be created at public expense.

It might look as if the ratepayers were fickle in their voting, since the original mall and parking building bylaw was endorsed by the first poll. Since then, however, the city's two biggest department stores have spent large amounts of their own money providing parking space, and other businesses have carried out similar projects on a smaller scale. Also there has been the development of new shopping centres, each with its own parking area. Private enterprise having shown this willingness to accommodate customers without cost to the taxpayers, it is logical for the latter to conclude that this is the way the problem of parking should be solved.

While accepting that as a probable explanation of this change of mind, one may still feel disappointment over the failure of the mall scheme. This was an opportunity to modernize part of the business area and to revitalize it in the tense rivalry which has latterly developed between the old centre of retail trade and the new self-contained shopping areas on the fringes. It is perhaps unfortunate that the mall and the parking building ideas had to be submitted as a single issue, with the result that the defeat of one was the defeat of both.

Export Trade Improved

CANADA'S export trade improved by 13.8 per cent for the first five months of the current year, April alone proving the exception to an advancing volume of shipments to markets abroad. The federal bureau of statistics in its analysis this week placed total export shipments for January to May inclusively at a value of $2,144,800,000, or $259,000,000 more than in the corresponding period last year. The gains, while relatively slight in some instances, were spread and involved all export markets with which the nation does business.

May was the best month of the period, with an upturn from the preceding month in which there had occurred a drop of 8.3 per cent in export shipments. In May Canadians increased their shipments to the United Kingdom by 28 per cent; to other Commonwealth countries by 20 per cent; to the United States, the smallest regional gain, by some 3 per cent on a volume of $277,300,000; and to all other countries combined by 33.7 per cent.

It would be interesting to see the related figures for imports from the same areas for purposes of comparison, because it is the total volume of shipments across Canadian borders which establishes our balance of trade.

There is some evidence that Canada's internal expansion slowed during the first quarter of the year, in relation to what has come to be accepted as the normal growth factor. There was an increase of less than 1 per cent between January and March inclusively from the final quarter of 1959. A small but unexpected decline in individual outlays on consumer goods and services was attributed as the main factor in a reduction in the volume of internal production. A late Easter and backward weather may also have had some part in the result.

While May may be an indication of upturning indices, particularly in the export field, it is not clear yet whether or not the estimated increase in the gross national product as set out in the budget will be realized by the end of 1960. Meanwhile the advance in export shipments has been encouraging, and this position should improve as latent benefits from some currency exchange factors become more operative.

Small, but Good

CANADA'S contribution to scientific development through the years has been limited, but appreciated. This country accepted an important part in both meteorological and ionospheric researches during the Third Geophysical Year, and followed that up by its own projection of the radio-telescope—now in operation in British Columbia—and this week by wholly new electronic measuring instruments which went into the special cap of a meteorological rocket fired by the United States.

Although it may seldom make the headlines, Canada's long study of radioactive isotopes through its nuclear reactors at Chalk River and elsewhere has contributed significant knowledge which has been placed at the disposal of the world. These efforts, while necessarily limited by the financial and economic resources of the nation, have had to do with the civil uses of scientific advance which in the long run will be of dominant importance to humanity.

Interpreting the News

Walking a Tight Rope

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

AS Nikita Khrushchev points with pride, views with alarm and has a look at the record for the benefit of the faithful in Bucharest, it is difficult for the North American observer to realize that he isn't running for office.

It can safely be assumed that Russia's premier had the vote of the Romanian delegation sewed up as he claimed sole credit for thwarting the nefarious plans of the wicked imperialists in Suez, Lebanon, Turkey, Korea and Japan. What remains tantalizingly uncertain is the identity and strength of the men he is running against.

In the absence of reliable channels of information, it is difficult for Westerners to gauge the importance of the differences of opinion that undeniably exist in the Communist camp. But Khrushchev himself has recently offered more than one piece of evidence that he is under pressure from party fundamentalists.

The most striking discrepancy is illustrated by China's unchanging and uncompromising hostility to the West, apparently unaffected by the day-to-day fluctuations emanating from Moscow.

The rift was forced into the open last winter when Khrushchev, embarrassed by Chinese border encroachments on the eve of his visit to India, took an unprecedentedly neutral stand on the dispute between his Communist ally and his aggrieved hosts.

Apparently unperturbed at being caught out of step, the Chinese continued to call down the wrath of the heavens upon the lackeys of capitalism. When Khrushchev stalked out of the Paris summit conference last month, the Communist allies were suddenly in step again.

The prevalent theory, unsupported by anything as concrete as Khrushchev's behavior in India, was that the Russian leader has reversed his peaceful co-existence policy in response to the urgings of politburo-colleagues who sympathized with the tough China line.

But coexistence remained Khrushchev's theme song in Bucharest, although it was accompanied by a rhythmic thumping of aggressive military blocs, spy planes and Titoist heresy.

Near Misses

The War Of Words

By CASSANDRA, from London

THE war of words never ceases. It is the ammunition of the mind and in English there are more than 500,000 words in the locker, most of which are rarely used at all.

Quite a lot of people manage with six or seven thousand words and you have to be eloquent and well-informed to have a vocabulary of twenty to fifty thousand words.

All you have to do with words is to know the right ones and then get them in the correct order. If you can do this, then you can be William Shakespeare, Dostoevski, Keats, Churchill, Milton, Lewis Carroll or any writer you like.

Precise knowledge of meanings helps but I have just heard of a new and unnerving technique practised by a young woman who can neither read nor write. Let's name her Miss Nomer. I call it the method of the near-miss.

For instance, this lady does not say "Happy as a sand boy." She says "Happy as a sandbag."

This is most disturbing, for, when you come to examine it, there is no reason at all why a sandbag should not be as happy as a sand boy. I've never seen a happy sand boy—or any kind of sand boy for that matter. But I have seen a reasonably contented sandbag.

Another example from the same near-miss expert. She said she didn't like living near a church because "the bells keep charming, charming all the time." And don't chime in and ask me why.

Old ladies, who are a little forgetful, she describes as "doting," which is easy enough, but sometimes the shots aren't so much near-misses as wild ricochets.

Miss Nomer was asked why she did not get a private tutor to come to her home to help her read and write. "Oh," she said primly, "my ladyship doesn't allow tooting in any of the rooms." Which is, maybe, just as well.

Her final salvo, which I commend to Mr. R. A. Butler, concerned one of the films about Oscar Wilde. Miss Nomer went to see this and when asked if she had enjoyed it she said: "Yes, ever so! It was all about those home secretaries."

Respectable Old Age

WHAT happens to elderly cinema organs that have hooped, honked, blared, blasted and produced tons and tons of audible syrup for every conceivable situation on and off the screen?

I will tell you. They are stripped for respectability.

The great organ that once mewed, cooed and trumpeted from the Gaumont Theatre in the Haymarket, London, has gone to the Chalkwell Methodist Church, Westcliff-on-Sea. It has been stripped of most of its "effects" apparatus and can now no longer imitate a Klaxon horn, a clog box, pistol shots, a train whistle and the sound of breaking surf.

I suppose the truth is that no really good cinema organ with its racy Hollywood background could be trusted during a heavily moral Methodist sermon not to have just one final pistol shot, followed by a whoop on the Klaxon and a skittish wallop on the old clog box.

Reports from Ottawa

MR. Speaker Michener of the Commons tends to agree that it would be a good idea to deprive MPs of their desks in the chamber, and give them only benches to sit on, in the style of Westminster.

This idea has been put forward by a good many persons over the years—including, be it noted, an MP from Lake Centre, Sask., named Diefenbaker.

A deskless chamber would be a roomier chamber, but the current interest in benches is not for the sake of more room, but for the sake of quality and brevity in parliamentary oratory. The desk is an oratorical crutch. It is a place on which an MP may lay his written speech—euphemistically called "extensive notes"—because it's against the rules to read a speech.

So if there were no desks, MPs wouldn't be able to read speeches. They would talk less, what they say would be from their own minds and hearts, and presumably Parliament would get through its business more quickly.

But I wonder if enough thought has been given to the appearance of a deskless chamber. One vision I conjure up is of front bench cabinet ministers sitting on their shoulder blades with their feet up on the big Commons table.

Correctly or not, that's the way English cartoonists have been wont to depict their own cabinet ministers—an Anthony Eden, for example, with his number nines parked on the edge of the table, beside the battered old despatch box.

British PMs and CMs must have inherited this habit from the 600-year-old history of their Parliament, but I don't think John Diefenbaker or Don Fleming could carry it off with any aplomb. Not only would it be not in the more decorous tradition of our Parliament, but I don't think their dignity is that flexible—to say nothing of their joints.

And then there is the danger of drowsiness. I have seen cabinet ministers fall asleep at their desks. The late Veterans Minister Ian Mackenzie snored and irritated Mackenzie King. Back benches used to run little sweepstakes on how long it would take for the nose of a former secretary of state to hit his desk.

But at least the sleepers were held in a more or less upright position by the arms of their chairs. With benches—well, I wonder if Mr. Speaker has considered that he may have to be asking the hon. member for East Drumhead to shake the sprawling form of his neighbor the hon. member for West Whistletop and request that he not snore so loudly?

But the real question is whether enough MPs are sufficiently interested in shortening the session to give up their oratorical crutches. The House can replace desks with benches only if a majority of the MPs approve.

Unless there is another change in the rules, I doubt if they will surrender their desks. Most of them are poor speakers. They need texts to follow. And they insist on putting forward their views, often on purely local matters, so their words will appear in Hansard, which they will then distribute among the voters back home.

The way around this difficulty is to permit MPs to insert speeches in the official record without actually having delivered them in the chamber. A good deal of material goes into the record that way now, as appendices to Hansard. Use of the Hansard appendix could be increased, to take in speeches put on the record but not read into it. Parliament then might—just might—finish its work in six months.

The Packback

Whole World Watching

By GREGORY CLARK

A SHOWDOWN that might blow into sensational proportions is now looming in the case of the last of the wild whooping cranes.

For several years past the public of not only the United States and Canada but of a considerable portion of the wide world has had its sympathies aroused by the battle of Canadian and American wildlife experts and conservationists to rescue from final extinction the last living flock of only 33 of these once multitudinous great birds. Each spring pleas are published widely through the West to watch for and protect the birds as they fly from their winter refuge in Texas on their way north to their nesting grounds in the northern portion of Wood Buffalo Park in the Northwest Territories. Each fall, similar pleas are broadcast that all care be taken to safeguard their flight south.

The Audubon Society of Canada,

What a showdown this could be.

in the latest issue of its publication, "Canadian Audubon," announces that one of the two recently announced proposals for new railroad routes between Edmonton and Great Slave Lake runs through the critical area of that last nesting ground. In a submission to Hon. Alvin Hamilton, minister of northern affairs and national resources, the society asks that a sector of Wood Buffalo Park be set aside as a "truly inviolate zone, a sanctuary in perpetuity for the world's last flock of whooping cranes."

Thirty-three birds in a last stand against the exploration and exploitation that has all but destroyed their race. Thirty-three birds, and the whole world watching.

What a showdown this could be.

Build thee more stately mansions, O my soul,
As the swift seasons roll!
Leave thy low-vaulted past!

Shut thee from heaven with a dome more vast,

Leaving thine outgrown shell by life's unresting sea!

Communist Rifts

Khrushchev Under Fire

By W. N. EWER, from London

UNTIL quite recently I was rather sceptical about suggestions of serious divergences of view between the two major Communist powers. It was clear that there were differences between the Soviet Communist Party and the Chinese Communist Party. But they seemed until now to have been mainly "ideological," confined to those questions of interpretation of Marxist-Leninist doctrine which have always been a favorite occupation of Communist "theorists."

Is it orthodox doctrine to say that "war can be eliminated for ever"; or only that "the possibility of preventing a world war does exist at present?" This is a typical example, discussed at length in a recent issue of Peking Peoples Daily—with implication that some Soviet leaders held the first view, and that it is incorrect.

But now matters have taken a new turn. The starting point seems to have been the meeting in Peking of the general council of the Communist-controlled World Federation of Trade Unions. Mr. Chou En-lai, addressing the delegates from 58 countries, told them: "... the aggressive and warlike nature of imperialism will never change... America's peace fraud has been exposed again and again."

That speech was not reported by the Soviet press. In fact, the only speech reported at length was that of Mr. Grishin, the Soviet delegate, calling for "peaceful co-existence." The divergence had shifted from the region of theory to that of immediate policy. Moscow's silence showed that Chou's speech was regarded there as an implied criticism of Mr. Khrushchev's visits to the West and of "summitry."

The Soviet reply, when it did come, was unprecedentedly sharp. It took the usual form of a three-column article in Pravda. No names were mentioned, just as Chou En-lai had mentioned none. But there was a blistering attack on "contemporary left-wingers in the international Communist movement who, having power in their hands, think that they can immediately introduce Communism and avoid historic phases of its development."

The description fits the Chinese Communist leaders, and them alone. And they are accused of "left-wing infantism, extremism, dogmatism"—all among the harshest terms of Communist controversy.

To rub it in, the authority of Lenin himself is invoked. Indirectly but unmistakably, Mao Tse-tung and his colleagues are charged with deviation from the tradition of Marxism and Leninism—the gravest accusation that can be made against a Communist; the equivalent of heresy in the mediaeval Christian Church.

There are, one feels sure, personal feelings behind all this. Mao, not unnaturally, resents Khrushchev's holding the centre of the world stage while he himself stays perforce in the wings. He must be irked by even the possibility of "summits" from which he is excluded. He has, perhaps, reason to feel that he has had from his ally something less than the support to which he regards himself as entitled. While, on his side, "Mr. K." is not the sort of man to take personal attacks and criticisms, from which ever quarter, lying down.

Not often since the establishment of the Chinese People's Republic have disagreements between Moscow and Peking come so clearly into the open. But it would be a profound mistake to deduce too much from this. Alliances and axes are often subjected to severe strains—especially when the feelings of decidedly dominant personalities are concerned. But that does not mean that they come anywhere near to breaking point.

There is another—probably quite as important—aspect of the whole affair. One passage in the Pravda article criticizing the attitude of "certain people" to current Soviet policy, quite evidently refers to people inside the Soviet Union and indeed inside the Communist Party itself. One has suspected for some time the existence, even in the higher echelons of the party, of elements opposed, for one or another reason, to Mr. Khrushchev and his policies. How strong, how threatening to his leadership, it is quite impossible to judge. But I now feel certain that this opposition exists, and that Mr. Khrushchev thinks that it has to be dealt with.

It is wrong I think, to look on it as a struggle between a moderate and comparatively liberal Khrushchev and a group of rigid, dogmatic Stalinists. The Pravda article hits out on all sides. Lenin's teachings are directed against the right-wing opportunists, contemporary revisionists and left-wing doctrinaires.

That was Stalin's method: to consolidate his authority by accusing all critics or opponents, either right-wing deviations, or of left-wing deviations. Khrushchev's technique, though different in the means employed, seems essentially the same. And he is an exceedingly skilful technician.

Letters to the Editor

Mr. Bennett's Flag

Is it permissible to ask whether the so-called British Columbia flag, which the premier is purported to have brought from Great Britain, is really a flag for the province and its people, or a form of standard to be flown at the various stoppages across the province while the cabinet is in circuit?

It is noticed that the flag—or standard—was raised at a recent stoppage of the pilgrimage by Mr. W. A. C. Bennett himself; admittedly it could be of magical political value—or could it?

When of course we have a legally declared national flag it will prove the confounding of the confused thinking both federally and provincially. Meantime, British Columbia's crest is of inestimable value as a sign of the "ties that bind."

ELLEN HART.

East Sooke, R.R. 1, Victoria.

More Humane

The Victoria branch of the B.C. SPCA would like to publicly commend the reported decision made by the finance committee of the municipality of Saanich on June 21 regarding the adoption of an "under control" bylaw rather than a leash law and to adopt a more humane method of destruction for unwanted or injured animals.

This society recommends that all dog owners in Saanich do everything possible to keep their dogs under their immediate control when they are off their own property and to conform to all the requirements of the new bylaw when it comes into force. This could well be the last chance if dog owners refuse to recognize their personal responsibility for the actions of their dogs to their community and neighbors.

This society has always contended that the rights of those people who do not own or like dogs should be respected and that they be given the necessary protection from annoyance by the animal or dog bylaws.

The privilege of owning a dog also carries responsibilities: those of seeing that the animal is properly cared for and that it is not a nuisance to neighbors or a hazard on roads.

P. WILKINSON,
Secretary-Manager.

Lawbreaking Juveniles

Your editorial on the above subject is of personal interest to me: I hope to other readers too.

Section 33 (2), Criminal Code of Canada, Juvenile Delinquents Act, reads: "Any person who, being the parent or guardian of the child (16 or under in the code—18 or under in the provincial act) and being able to do so, knowingly neglects to do that which would directly tend to prevent said child being or becoming a juvenile delinquent, or to remove the conditions that render or are likely to render the child a juvenile delinquent, is liable on summary conviction before a juvenile court or magistrate to a fine not exceeding $500 or to imprisonment for a period not exceeding two years or to both fine and imprisonment."

In 35 years of working with delinquents I have never known that section of the code to be put to its full advantage: I venture to say that if it had been, juvenile delinquency would never have been as serious a problem as it is today.

A provision of that nature, with a punishment as severe, should be included in all provincial juvenile delinquents acts, all government liquor control acts. I would raise the age to 21 under which juvenile delinquents could be charged. I would see that the act was put into force. Parents will sit up and take notice then.

Many thousands of delinquents of all ages came my way. Most of them had become rebels, against society because of their drinking habits. A standard question I ask when counselling them was, "When did you start to drink?" Almost without exception they would reply, "Before I was 16." There is the answer to the problem of delinquency.

You mention that the waiters "are scared stiff of admitting juveniles." Good! That is what the law is for! It is time that juvenile delinquents, their parents too, were "scared stiff!"

'Keep Out of Our Affairs'

Courteous but Blunt Reply
To Jaycee Africa Protest

DUNCAN — Jaycees of Duncan have received a courteous but "blunt" reply from South African Jaycees in return for a "protest" against that country's segregation policies.

The letter states some retaliatory methods were justified for actions by wild natives against white settlers, and that it is debatable if the non-whites are capable of taking control of the country.

"It was an informative letter. It is clear enough, though, that they mean we should keep out of their domestic problems," said Jaycee president Horst Nowrath.

The club protested to all South African Jaycee clubs and sent a copy to Prime Minister John Diefenbaker.

"We did what we feel we should have, and through world protest they have stopped shooting," said Mr. Nowrath. The letter has yet to be dealt with by the membership here.

The letter states: "Your protest was transmitted to all members of the South African national executive and to all local presidents, and from the replies I have so far received there appears to be unanimity in stating that this is a domestic issue to be settled by the people here."

"It is a strange thing, but like marriage when a husband and wife quarrel they usually

up a united front when the neighbors come complaining of the noise."

"I agree that colored people are as capable of accepting rights and responsibilities as much as anyone else, but we have an enormous African (black) population which is only a few stages removed from witchcraft and primitive ways, and is by no means ready to assume the obligations of administration."

"The Belgian Congo is to receive its independence shortly, and the native population is seething... white settlers are fleeing in fear for their lives... and this makes one won-

July-August to Test Promenade

Ottawa Mall Promoters Smile
As 'Money' Months Approach

OTTAWA (CP) — Although

her charms have their limits, the Sparks Street mall is putting on a sprightly campaign to turn an experimental summer outing into a business conquest.

The general view is that July and August will decide the dollars-and-cents benefits to the downtown businessmen who brought the three-block pedestrian promenade into being a month ago, going 50-50 with the city on the $30,000 cost of setting it up.

Heading the optimists is E. R. Fisher, president of the Sparks Street Development Association, which has hired a statistician to seek out evidence of the mall's effectiveness.

Mr. Fisher said the mall has (1) provided a clear indication of what the expenditure of $30,000 can do to improve the appearance of the capital's downtown area, and (2) has created an atmosphere that will influence more people to want to come to Sparks Street more often as pedestrians. In the boom category are cafe operators, who set up sidewalk cafes as part of the mall plan. The five-and-dime and department stores also reported more people in their shops—although they didn't want to try to translate the greater number in terms of sales—and one drug store reported a marked increase in business.

General's Will Set Aside

Court Ruling Denies Bequest to Balkans

VANCOUVER (CP) — A

Supreme Court decision by Mr. Justice A. M. Manson setting aside the will of Brig-Gen. Frederick William Elias Burnham was upheld by a majority judgment of the B.C. Court of Appeal Friday.

Mr. Justice C. H. O'Halloran

The will left a $200,000 estate for the poor and afflicted of Montenegro, Macedonia and Armenia.

Gen. Burnham, a Winnipeg Doctor, organized a hospital unit during the First World War to help Balkan countries.

Two nephews, William Whittle of Winnipeg and Robert Meredith Whittle of North Vancouver, were each left $100 a year for life.

They will share the estate under the court's ruling that the will is invalid.

Mr. Justice Manson ruled against the will because the two attesting witnesses were not present when Gen. Burnham signed the will.

Between 260 and 300 B.C.

Electric bus drivers and maintenance men in Victoria were among 2,000 employees here and in Vancouver and New Westminster, who voted last night to accept a company offer which will give them a nine-per-cent wage increase during the next 27 months.

The new contract provides for a three-per-cent raise retroactive to June 1 and further three-per-cent increases March 1 and Dec. 1 next year. This will increase the basic hourly wage to $2.40 from $2.20.

The new agreement, result of negotiations between the company and the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employees of America, also provides for introduction of a four-week vacation for employees with 25 years or more service.

LONDON (Reuters).—Princess Margaret's husband Friday got the first taste of what it's like to be unemployed and have a working wife.

Anthony Armstrong-Jones will perform this summer — most of them alone. Armstrong-Jones is not scheduled to share a public engagement with his wife until July 21, when they will attend the jubilee festival of the Girl Guides.

The 30-year-old commoner who gave up an active career as a professional photographer now finds himself with time on his hands.

Africa, U.S. Under Fire

EDMONTON (CP).—Resolutions opposing the Moral Re-Armament movement, a South African and United States segregation policies will be presented at the two-day CCF party provincial convention which opened here Friday. It is expected a compulsory prepaid medical care plan in the CCF's platform will be reaffirmed.

Cuba Pouring Out Hate-U.S. Drive

WASHINGTON (UPI).—The chief of the U.S. information agency said Friday Cuba is being used as a springboard for a $100,000,000 Communist "hate-America" campaign designed to undercut U.S. prestige in the Western hemisphere.

George V. Allen said the drive hopes to picture the U.S. as standing in the path of Latin American progress and lead it into economic and military reprisals against Cuba.

TACKLE BOX

It has been impossible, because of that constantly-blowing wind, for anyone to assemble anything like an authoritative and comprehensive fishing report for the past week. From Campbell River to Sooke the story is almost invariably the same—not enough fishermen are getting out for long enough to find out whether or not fishing is good.

There have been a couple of exceptions. George Bates reports from Bates Beach Boathouse that Wednesday and Thursday nights were two of the best he has had there for some time, indicating that the annual Jühe run of springs has come in.

Thursday night all but one boat brought in salmon and at least six had fish between 15 and 20 pounds. Quite a number of coho were also taken but a stiff wind came up and fishermen had to get off the water by 8.

Another good report came in yesterday from Ted Smitheringale, manager of Painter's Lodge at Campbell River, where tourists are on hand to take advantage of the periods when the wind lets up enough to permit fishing from time to time.

Tides in the area are favorable at the moment and anglers have been limiting often on coho averaging five pounds and getting a good number of springs between eight and 15 pounds in early morning and evening fishing. Best time for coho has been in the late morning.

Anglers in the Campbell River area have been using mainly Tiny Louie plugs. Tom Mack spoons and the Kam Lure, which is probably used more there than anywhere else on the Island. At Bates Beach, the popular lures have been the Rex Field plug and the Strip-Teaser.

A Rex Field plug, incidentally, is a worthwhile addition to any tackle box. The Courtenay plugmaker has both a six-inch plug and his new plastic three-inch coho plug on the market in attractive packaging and should get a good response from anglers who prefer artificials. Both are proven fish-foolers and can be trolled fast enough to discourage most of the ever-lurking dogfish.

Speaking of lures, it is becoming more and more evident that more and more anglers are realizing that success does not necessarily come from cranking a tackle box with dozens of lures.

Those who like to fish herring, herring strip or minnows seldom use an artificial and most of those who use bait use it in either the Strip-Teaser or the Minnow Teaser. Rhys Davis' lures have not only been established for some years now but are gaining each year in popularity.

Rhys now has six different lures on the market, introducing the Tiny Teaser, Herring Teaser and Super Strip-Teaser this year to go along with the small and large Strip Teaser and the Minnow Teaser.

The Tiny Teaser and Herring Teaser, particularly, fill a need for the fisherman who prefers bait. The former is designed for coho fishing and can be trolled at speeds which make it possible to avoid dogfish, which are particularly the bane of bait-users. The Herring Teaser, which will take bait to seven and a half inches, is the answer to the recent trend to use large whole herring.

Among the artificials, the Tom Mack spoon and the Tiny Louie plugs seem to have established themselves with lasting popularity. All a complete tackle box needs in the way of lures are the teasers you prefer, a couple of different sizes of spoons, a large and a small plug of your choice, pearl pink is the best color, and a couple of bucktail flies.

Two more items about tackle box equipment. The Alaskan plug, popular with many types fishermen, is not being manufactured any more and all that are available may be a few that some sporting goods dealers still have in stock.

Secondly, while browsing through a Portland sporting goods store this week finally found a piece of equipment I had long sought. Made out of aluminum alloy, it is called a Fish Gripper. As the name implies, it is a powerful pliers-type tool which simplifies removal of hooks and should be excellent for use on dogfish, which can be gripped by the mouth and held at a safe distance while they meet their deserved fate. It is made in the United States and I do not know whether or not it is available here.

Speaking Briefly

Finisterre Wins Again

The broad-beamed 39-foot yawl Finisterre overcame both languid breezes and outright gales and won the Newport, R.I.-Bermuda yacht race for the third straight time Friday on the basis of corrected time.

Finisterre, owned by Carleton Mitchell, took both the over-all honors and those in the smallest class, E, to become the undisputed queen of ocean racing. She had an elapsed time for 635 nautical miles of 127 hours, 39 minutes, and 54 seconds. Her handicap, large because of her comparatively short length, gave her a final corrected time of 102 hours, 58 minutes, 52 seconds.

The race that began last Saturday at Newport in almost a dead calm wound up in a storm that disabled at least four out of the 135 entries.

WINNIPEG BLUE BOMBERS got a real boost yesterday when settlement of a player dispute with New York Giants of the National Football League gave the Grey Cup champions Jack Delmonico, tough fullback who stars as a linebacker, . . . the Bombers also announced they have signed Ray Jauch, a halfback, who was the leading ground-gainer for University of Iowa in 1958 and a star again for the Buckeyes last year . . . legal action is threatened by Saskatchewan Roughriders in an effort to keep Bob Placock, quarterback obtained from Cleveland Browns, who signed a Roughrider contract last May and later signed with Los Angeles Chargers of the new American Football League . . . Ray Powell, who played for Victoria Cougars a few seasons back, is the new coach of the Kelowna Packers of the Okanagan Hockey League . . . Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League have signed an affiliation agreement with Montreal Canadiens, who have promised some of their best prospects.

WALT ALSTON, who was kept on when Los Angeles Dodgers finished seventh in 1958 and then bounced back to win the world series last year, has been assured his job is not now in danger. The Dodgers are currently sixth.

Harry Dean, known as "the dean of Canadian cricket," died Thursday in Toronto. He was 85 . . . two world swimming records were set last night in the Los Angeles invitational swimming and diving meet.

George Harrison was timed in 5:05.3 minutes for the 400-metre individual medley, cutting eight seconds off the record which had been held by Ian Black of Scotland. Lynne Burke did the 200-metre backstroke in 2:36.3 minutes, eight-tenths of a second better than the old mark set by S. Tanaka of Japan.

One player finally completing a suspended match was Earl (Butch) Buchholz of St. Louis, who wrapped up a 6-4, 15-13, 7-5 victory over Bob Mark, the fifth-ranking Australian, in the third round of the men's singles. Only the third set was played Friday and just as it ended, a two-hour rain hit the courts.

Miss Bueno, the defending champion, took no chances with the English climate. The Sao Paulo schoolteacher needed only 23 minutes to polish off Margaret Hellyer of Australia, 6-0, 6-0.

Miss Hantz wobbled a little before ousting Lynne Hutchings of South Africa, 6-2, 6-1.

Showers Delaying Play at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Brazil's Maria Bueno and California's Karen Hantze jogged between the showers at the water-logged Wimbledon tennis courts Friday and gained the quarter-finals of the women's singles in the all-England championships. They were lucky—not inhis 13th and 14th home runs and a single, stole home and made 10 putouts in centerfield. Combined with Mike McCormick's steady pitching, it was enough to give the Giants a 5-3 decision over Cincinnati Reds and end a five-game losing streak.

But the Giants remained six and a half games out, the leading Pirates knocking off Chicago Cubs, 4-1, behind Vinegar Bend Mizell. Pittsburgh used three singles and a walk for two-run rallies which gave the veteran southpaw all the help he needed.

Victory boosted the Pirates' lead to three and a half games as Los Angeles Dodgers ended a six-game winning streak for Milwaukee Braves with a 10-inning, 5-3 verdict.

Wally Moon's triple and a sacrifice fly by Don Demeter broke the tie, an insurance run was added by three Milwaukee errors.

HOTTEST CLUB

That left Philadelphia as the hottest club in the league at the moment. The rookie-led Phillies made it six in a row with a 4-3 conquest of St. Louis Cardinals.

Veteran Robin Roberts, going the distance for his fourth win in 11 decisions, and rookie outfielder Ken Walters, batting in two runs, shared the starring role for the winners. Shortstop Tony Kubek and outfield star Roger Maris combined different talents to keep the New York Yankees ahead in the American League.

Kubek hit two home runs and a single, batted in five runs to lead a 10-hit attack which scuttled Cleveland Indians, 10-6, in the first game of an important series. Kubek's single scored two runs, breaking a 6-6 tie as the Yanks won it with a four-run seventh inning.

LEAPING CATCH

Maris, leading the league in runs batted in and home runs, probably saved the game with a sensational leaping catch in the sixth. It came after the Indians had overcame a 5-0 lead to pull even at 6-6 and deprived Tito Francona of a bases-loaded home run.

Baltimore Orioles stayed on the pace with a persistent rally which finally bested Kansas City, 6-5.

Patrick's Memory Honored

SEATTLE (CP)—The Western Hockey League's President's Cup has been renamed the Lester Patrick Cup, in memory of the hockey great who died in Victoria this month.

Decision to change the name of the cup was made by league directors May 12 at the annual meeting. The league will continue to give the Directors' Trophy to the team finishing the regular season in first place.

Final Match, Hole by Hole

MORNING ROUND	Par	in	435	454	345	37	76

AFTERNOON ROUND	Par	in	435	454	345	37	76
Mrs. DeGirolamo	554	355	543	39
Miss Smith	554	464	643	42

Five down after the first 18 holes of the 36-hole final and trailing by four after 23 holes, the young Victoria veteran came back in spectacular fashion to close out the match on the 17th green and win the automatic selection to the B.C. inter-provincial team. It was a rally to match Palmer's final round in the U.S. Open.

Miss Smith, the 1956 champion, had eliminated three Victorians—Mrs. D. Naysmith, Mrs. Joan Lawson and Mrs. G. E. Harris—to reach the final. And after a fine morning round, in which she shot a one-under-par 75, appeared to have a second championship in her grasp.

Mrs. DeGirolamo quickly cut into the lead as the final 18 started, winning the 19th and 20th with par fives and the 22nd with a bogey four when Miss Smith flubbed a chip shot.

But the Vancouver golfer won the 25th when Mrs. DeGirolamo's approach shot rolled over the green and the 23rd when the Victoria golfer put her approach in a trap.

Four down with 13 holes left, the Victorian then quickly got into contention with a fine chip shot on the 24th and two bad shots by her opponent on the 26th and 27th.

Mrs. DeGirolamo won the 24th with a birdie four when her chip left her five feet away and she sank the putt. After the 25th was halved, Miss Smith got into trouble on the 26th when the wind carried her approach into the rough and on the 27th, when she drove into the woods on the right.

That left the eventual champion trailing by one with nine left, but Miss Smith was still battling. She halved the 28th and 29th, won the 30th with an eight-foot putt to overcome what was for her a bad break.

Mrs. DeGirolamo started the 30th by driving into a trap but got her par five when her putt, which had stopped on the lip, was blown into the hole by the wind just as Miss Smith spoke up to concede the second putt.

While Miss Smith's fine putt nullified the break, she was unable to come up with anything to match Mrs. DeGirolamo on the next four holes, lost them all as she made her own trouble on three holes.

Mrs. DeGirolamo, shooting the last six holes in two under par, won the 31st when Miss Smith put her approach shot in a trap and had to take a bogey five and the margin was again only one hole.

On the 32nd, the 445-yard dog-leg, Miss Smith hit a tremendous tee shot well past the corner and into a spot where she only needed an iron to reach the green.

But she shanked her second shot into the trees to lose when the Gorge Vale golfer came up with a birdie four and the match was squared for the first time since the start.

Mrs. DeGirolamo, dropping a long putt for a second successive birdie, went ahead on the 33rd, got into dormie position on the 135-yard 34th when Miss Smith put her tee shot over the green. The match ended when the 35th was halved.

In the morning round, some costly shanking by the new champion and some fine putting by Miss Smith built up a big lead for the Vancouver golfer.

She won the first three holes when Mrs. DeGirolamo started off with three bogies—so the 434-yard sixth with an eagle three. Mrs. DeGirolamo got her first win on the seventh, was three down at the turn to the two-under 37 carded by Miss Smith.

Coming in, Miss Smith added two holes to her lead, shooting a one-over 38. She won the 10th with a par, lost the 13th to a par, won the 14th with a par five and the 16th with a birdie deuce.

John Thomas Cracks Jump Record Again

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (UPI)—Towering John Thomas bettered the world's record for the high jump last night when he cleared the bar at seven feet, two inches—greatest outdoor jump in history—in the U.S. national AAU track and field meet.

Thomas cleared the bar on his third effort against a strong wind. Actually, he made good on his second try, but the wind blew the bar off the standards before he could get out of the pit and officials disallowed the effort. He had failed on his first try—so the third was his final chance.

The recognized world mark for high jumpers is seven feet, one inch, held by Yuri Stepanov of Russia. However, Thomas has a mark of seven feet, 1 1/2 inches pending; and a mark of seven feet, 2 1/2 inches indoors. This is not recognized in world circles.

Veteran, Youngster Mound Opponents

A 41-year-old veteran who spent 11 seasons in the major leagues and a youngster rated by Baltimore Orioles as having the potential to do as well will be the opposing pitchers at Royal Athletic Park this afternoon when Victoria Pages meet the Caribbean Kings at 2:30 in the first of two games with the barnstormers.

The second will be at 7:30 this evening.

Virgil "Fire" Trucks, a fellow good enough despite missing two seasons for a service stint to win about 170 American League games, will start for the tourists. Pages will counter with Dave Vineyard, a youngster with Vancouver Mounties of the Pacific Coast Baseball League on option from Baltimore.

It will be the second time Pages have received mound help from the Mounties. Two weeks ago, Dick Fitzgerald

Whistling West Wind Brings No Decision

Stiff west wind blew what looked like a sure game-winning single right into the glove of Orioles' outfielder Bob Lumley in the bottom of the ninth inning last night and ended all hope of a Senior Amateur Baseball League decision.

With the score tied 3-3 in the last half of the ninth, Les Brice was on second with one out. Steve Bishop cracked out a blow and Brice was off like a shot around third base when Lumley gathered in the suddenly-slowed ball and fired it to second for a double play.

Handicap Removed From Foreign-Breds

VANCOUVER (CP) — Foreign-bred thoroughbreds will race on equal footing with Canadian-bred horses on British Columbia tracks in the future, the B.C. Racing Commission announced Friday.

A rule that penalized foreign-breds from five to seven pounds in all races except handicaps was thrown out in a move to encourage United States owners to bring their horses to B.C. tracks.

The change is effective immediately. It eliminates a rule that required foreign-breds up to three years old to carry seven pounds more, and those four years old and over five pounds more than Canadian-breds.

Commission secretary Ken McConnell said Canadian-bred horses no longer need the protection given by the old rule.

He said that prior to 1930, there were only about 75 thoroughbreds foaled west of the Great Lakes.

Sam Snead in Tie With Belgian Golfer

PORTMARNOCK, Ireland (UPI) — Slammin' Sammy Snead shot a four-under-par 35-33-68 Friday to tie Belgium's Flor van Donck for the 36-hole lead in the National Trophy and Canada Cup golf championship while Arno Palmer's 34-37-71 helped give the United States the team lead.

A cheering gallery of more than 15,000 followed the two Yanks around the sunsweltered course and when the halfway mark was reached in the four-day, 72-hole competition, it was "The Slammer" in a head-and-head battle with another 48-year-old and United States three shots ahead of Ireland in the tussle.

Griffin's Bowling Cold, Then Hot

LONDON (Reuters) — Geoff Griffin, South Africa's controversial pace bowler, was no-balled seven times, then performed the hat-trick, on the second day of the second cricket test against England at Lord's here.

England, which has 347 for five on the board before Griffin's hat-trick, finished the day at 362 for eight in its first innings.

Griffin, who was called five times Thursday for throwing, has six calls against him Friday for the same offence, and one for dragging. But his hat-trick, the first by a South African in a test, was ample compensation.

He had Mike Smith caught for 99 with the last ball of his 13th over of the day, and bowled Peter Walker (52) and Freddie Trueman (0) with the first and second of his following over.

'Stoutless' Sunday

19th Hole Stoney Dry

By OSCAR FRALEY

DUBLIN (UPI) — Those two grand Irishmen, Omar Khayam and Johnny Appleseed, led the bibulous golf brigade in deep mourning at the Canada Cup matches Friday.

Omar, the "jug of wine" man, must have been a golfing Gael because any such likes his "wee drop of the crathur." And to go along with such thinking, Johnny Appleseed didn't plant all those trees just to get apples, Jack.

But come Sunday at Portmarnock the 19th hole is going to be stoney dry.

As a prelude to this drastic decision, heralded in Dublin papers as "stoutless Sunday," you have to go back a ways to the British Masters tournament in October. And, also, you must understand the terrain.

Portmarnock, where the Canada Cup is being played, sits on a sandy spit of land jutting out into the Irish Sea. There's one road in and, naturally, only one road out.

Thus, last October things came to a pretty pass when 27,000 spectators showed up to see the British Masters. And, to complicate matters, a sporting goods company began handing out food tickets which, some quaffing genius quickly discovered, could be used instead for liquid refreshment.

The results would have made the Messrs. Khayam and Appleseed exceedingly exhilarated. The combination of Irishmen, large quantities of free thirst quenchers and two of their local heroes making a run at the top prize made it a day to celebrate, indeed.

They did, enough.

So well that it was 6 o'clock the next morning before the last of them left the pleasant pitch and putt premises.

They staggered out of sand bunkers in the dawn's early light. Others had to be pulled from Dublin Bay. Some, in spirits which may be designated safely as "high," tried to swim across to Dublin. Others just pitched the whole business and spent the night snoring blissfully in cars parked as sedately as if they were in a used car lot. There were those, too, who drove around the course to inspect its moonswamp beauty and the shoreline was littered with more boats than they had in the Spanish Armada.

It was something like New Year's Eve, and an Irish wake and a Polish christening all rolled into one.

But the law has a long memory.

When the National Transport Company attempted to obtain an "occasional" liquor licence for its 13 bars scattered around the greens and fairways at Portmarnock this time Justice Manus Nunan denied the petition with tongue-in-cheek solemnity as he observed:

"A most meritorious application. I would be only too glad to grant it, but I have not the power."

Neither, apparently, did anybody else—particularly those who remembered last October.

"Over lovely Portmarnock hangs an invisible cloud of despondency," reported the Daily Mail.

"On Sunday, whatever the weather, Portmarnock will be dry. Thirty thousand fairway enthusiasts are expected to flock to Portmarnock but tens of thousands of bottles of good Irish stout and beer will remain unopened."

"Ah," breathed one when he read it, "but Sunday will be a terrible thirsty day."

From the way he said it, Monday will be something to see.

Doctors Silenced By Rigged Vote?

REGINA (CP)—Leaders of Saskatchewan's salaried doctors said Friday that their group has lost its official voice in the province's ruling medical association.

Dr. Humphrey Osmond, superintendent of the Saskatchewan Mental Hospital at Weyburn, said it seems reasonable to assume the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons is trying to silence a dissident group of salaried doctors within its ranks.

The five-man executive of the salaried physicians section of the college was forced to resign last Sunday after a vote of censure.

All doctors in the province, about 900, are members of the college. Most of the salaried doctors are on the provincial government payroll.

"I feel there is some relationship between the disappearance of the salaried section and the fact the college is not very fond of our section," Dr. Osmond said.

He said it was ill-considered of the Saskatchewan meeting not to examine qualifications of a group of about 60 doctors who applied for membership in the salaried section on the eve of the meeting.

Dr. Stanley Best said the salaried section now is virtually defunct.

Drug Ads Aimed at Doctors False, Misleading—CCFer

OTTAWA (CP)—The CCF's Frank Howard told the Commons Thursday that some advertising directed at doctors by drug manufacturers is "absolutely untrue, false and misleading." He suggested that the government take steps to control it.

The MP for Skeena said four or five Ottawa doctors had told him they were "virtually swamped" by advertising material, most of which was far too sketchy. It was designed solely to impress the brand name on the doctor's mind and carried only sketchy reference to clinical tests of the drug advertised.

The advertising campaign constituted an "attempt to brainwash doctors," he said.

Health Minister Monteith said his department has not enough staff to concern itself with advertising literature going to doctors. The medical profession was deemed capable of accurately evaluating the literature.

Any Older Native Victorian?

By JAMES K. NESBITT

Garrett Smith, 90, who died in Victoria this week, was born here Sept. 25, 1869, when British Columbia was still a Crown Colony.

His death leaves his elder brother Hamilton, perhaps the oldest surviving native son of Victoria.

Is there anyone else older who was born in Victoria?

Hamilton Smith was born here Feb. 22, 1867, which makes him going on 94, still spry of body and bright of mind, living his bachelor life in a small James Bay waterfront cottage, walking to town and back nearly every day, stopping on the way for a cup of tea with his old friends, William Woolcock and his sister, Miss Enid, in their neat, historic house on Belleville Street. Hamilton and Garrett Smith were born to Mr. and Mrs. Moses R. Smith, prominent early-day residents of Victoria, who came here in the hectic years of the gold hunters more than a century ago.

Moses Smith arrived in 1858, after seeking gold in the Cariboo. He put his poke into a modest bakery business here; this prospered beyond his wildest dreams, and he took his sons into partnership as soon as they left school. The boys started in by sweeping out the factory on Saturday mornings.

For years the Smith firm had large contracts to supply bread and hardtack to Queen Victoria's Navy, then based at Esquimalt.

Moses Smith built a fine home 1890 on the Dallas Road at the corner of Niagara, and this he called "Seaview."

Garrett Smith, a widower who lived latterly at Mount St. Mary, leaves a son in the United States.

Fallout Shelter Plan

A province-wide program to promote home-built nuclear fallout shelters will start here next month, with backing expected from provincial and municipal governments and civil defence authorities.

A provincial government spokesman said yesterday the first aim is to induce the public to install shelters in the basements of their homes.

The province is supporting a federal program, announced in Ottawa last week, which includes home improvement loans to encourage the building of home shelters.

$400 Taken from Milling Firm

Police Question Suspect
In Saanich Safecracking

Syndicate Plans Cruises

Deal for Idle Ferries?
It's News to Us—CPR

Reports that a syndicate which includes Vancouver businessmen is planning to purchase the Princess Joan and Princess Elizabeth for a new Puget Sound cruise service were denied last night by CPR officials.

A spokesman said the CPR knows nothing of any offer to purchase the ships which have been laid up at the CPR dock on the Inner Harbor since the company dropped its night run to Vancouver.

The official added, however, "we will always listen to any business proposition."

The proposed new cruise service would operate between Tacoma, Victoria and Vancouver, informants said. The cruise would last two days with an overnight stay in Vancouver.

No starting date or further details were given except that two vessels have already been surveyed and found suitable.

Saanich police are holding a man for questioning in connection with a safe-cracking overnight Thursday at Ellison Milling and Elevator Co. Ltd., 550 Cuddehul.

Detectives said it was the first safe-cracking in Saanich in two years.

An estimated $400 in cash was taken from the heavy floor safe, not visible from the road, which was found toppled forward with its back chopped open.

The thief smashed an outside window next to a bathroom to enter the office where the safe was kept, said police.

Theft was discovered shortly before 8 a.m. yesterday by a plant foreman who called police.

Heart Attack
Fatal

Edward H. Allan, 44, of 95 Moss, suffered a heart seizure yesterday afternoon just after leaving Royal Jubilee Hospital in his car, and was pronounced dead when city police returned him to the hospital.

Mr. Allan had a record of heart trouble, and had just undergone examination minutes before the seizure. It is thought his death resulted from a blood clot.

At the time he was driving east on Fort, and his car struck a parked vehicle east of Richmond, causing slight damage. Mrs. Allan was with her husband at the time. There are two children, Robin, 12, and Derek, 9.

Mr. Allan had worked for many years for Sidney Roofing Co.

Murphy Raps Voters:

People in Past
Wreck Future

People who live in the past are destroying the future of Greater Victoria, Coun. Stanley Murphy of Saanich charged last night.

Coun. Murphy's outburst was sparked by the defeat of city council's downtown mall proposal Thursday, but, he said, the reason for the defeat governs most similar projects.

"It is tragic that decisions at the polls are made by predominantly older people who fear an additional tax burden," he said.

"They are opposed to amalgamation, schools, sewers, malls or anything that costs money."

He also blamed the younger residents of the area for a "couldn't care less" attitude, which in effect gives control to the large, elderly section of Greater Victoria's population.

"These same, younger people will expect the government to look after them in future years," he said. "What a heritage to leave their children."

"Greater Victoria was not built by people who were content to stand still. We need more people of vision if Greater Victoria is to progress."

A collection of drawings by cartoonist Ronald Searle will be on display in Eaton's window until Tuesday.

Bust Target Again
For Park Vandals

Concrete bust of Queen Elizabeth in Beacon Hill Park, which recently had its nose broken off by vandals, was a target again this week when the left shoulder tip was chipped off and the neck cracked.

Artists Fail to Rally Round Flag

New B.C. Ensign a 'Clutter'
But Better Than Predecessor

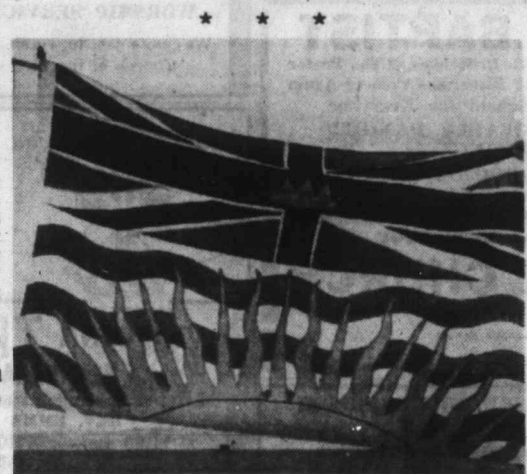

British Columbia's new flag, hoisted yesterday at the legislative flagpole, is a hodgepodge of grossly exaggerated symbols, say several Victoria artists.

The new banner, raised here at 10.20 a.m. by Attorney-General Robert Bonner, Recreation Minister Earle Westwood and Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston, was variously described as "too complicated," "cluttered," and "not pleasant to look at."

William D. West said, "It's not memorable enough. It's too complicated to carry any real impact. I'm not keen on it; it's an unduly elaborate design."

"The ferry system flag is very good. It has a simple and memorable kind of symbol (dogwood blossom) which I don't feel the other one has. But, I do think this new flag is a vast improvement over the fantastic thing they had before."

Fleming Jorgensen said, "It's confusing. People in other countries are going to see it and wonder what we're trying to convey. It's going to be hard to explain when they ask about the sun, the lines in back, the crown and the Union Jack.

"Four different elements are too much for a provincial flag. It should be very clean cut, and with one symbol for the province. The flag could certainly be improved."

Mrs. Nita Forrest said, "If we're going to have a new flag, I think we should get a more artistic one from someone who has a good sense of design. It should be typical of

B.C. and in good taste, not corny like Century Sam."

"My first reaction when I saw it was not one of pleasure. I don't like it. That starfish or bursting sun at the bottom. I don't think it's good at all."

Michael Morris said, "I think it's a far better design than they've had before but I feel there are too many symbols and that they are too large for the whole thing."

His mother, Mrs. R. G. Morris, also an artist, said, "It looks not quite simple enough. It is a little cluttered."

It appeared that the artists generally felt that the banner, with its yellow sun on blue-and-silver sea beneath a Union Jack with centred crown, should have remained in the vaults of the College of Arms in London where it had lain since 1906 when King Edward VII awarded it to the province by royal warrant.

It was brought back from England last week by Premier W. A. C. Bennett who was still in Vancouver when the trio of cabinet ministers yesterday officially unfurled it in Victoria.

City Can Mow Cheaper

No Cut Rates
For Cutting JobSingle Bid
Double
Old Cost

City parks department employees can breathe easier today.

City council yesterday rejected a single tender received for the cutting and watering of boulevards and greens, because, parks chairman Ald. M. H. Mooney said, the $92,000 bid was twice the cost of the parks department doing the work.

INQUIRY CALL

Tenders were called after council at budget time decided to see if some city work could be done more cheaply by contracting it out.

The tender was submitted by Ragbir Singh and Tirath Singh Sundher.

OTHER TRIES

Council, however, is still interested in finding if it can save money in other fields of work. Yesterday it decided that tenders should be called on local-improvement side-walks, curbs and gutters.

Council approved in principle the commercial rezoning of the property for the proposed $10,000,000 Hillside Plaza development, with several conditions including a "reasonable" time-limit for development, a requirement that view-obscuring landscaping must be undertaken to protect adjoining residential property, and a stipulation that final plans must be approved before rezoning becomes effective.

GOING UP

The advisory planning commission recommended rejection of an application for a zoning bylaw amendment to permit an eight-storey apartment block to be built on Douglas across from Goodacre Lake, but council instructed the city solicitor to draft a bylaw allowing up to eight storeys.

"We haven't enough land in the city and there's going to be a continual demand for apartments higher than four storeys," said Mayor Percy Scourrah. "We have to face it, you've got to go up."

DEFINE CHURCH

A request of the St. George Conquest of the Ukrainian-Greek Orthodox Church for recognition of 1842 Oak Bay Avenue as a church was referred to finance committee for consideration, leading Ald. Rev. J. L. W. McLean to suggest that council should have a definition of a church—"I'm referring to a group of people, not a building."

It seemed to him, he said, that more and more groups of people were calling themselves a church, although he was "not saying they are not."

City Solicitor T. P. O'Grady said it was the use of a building that counted as far as council was concerned, for tax exemption.

Council also:

● Endorsed a Victoria-Esquamalt health board resolution opposing subdivision of land off Kingham Place on Portage Inlet if septic tanks are to be used.

● Removed four lots on Belleville next to the British America Paint Co. plant from the reserve list to permit their sale.

● Approved in principle the idea of passing a bylaw to allow trees or shrubs in them—to be placed on city side-walks, subject to city approval, although the city solicitor expressed doubt that council had authority to pass such a by-law.

● In a closed committee session after the regular meeting, authorized Mayor Scourrah to appoint a citizens' committee and asked city department heads to work with the Capital Region Planning Board in the urban renewal study it is carrying out in the city.

Symphony Negotiating

Garden Debut
By 'Met' Star?

Negotiations are under way to bring Canadian-born Teresa Stratas of the Metropolitan Opera to Victoria as guest artist for one of two outdoor symphony concerts at Butchart Gardens during July.

A spokesman for the management said yesterday it was hoped the coloratura soprano would consent to sing with Victoria Symphony Orchestra under conductor Hans Gruber.

Negotiations were started three months ago and a final answer is expected within 48 hours.

Last year the singer was scheduled to star in the Butchart Gardens symphony concert series, but cancelled her appearance when she contracted chicken pox.

A crowd of some 6,000 turned out last year for one concert and officials said this record was "nowhere near" capacity for the gardens.

Lumber Workers Help

University Drive
Near $1,900,000

Officials of the Victoria University fund drive still hope to reach a total of $1,900,000 by July 1, a spokesman said yesterday.

Latest total, released yesterday, stands at $1,864,877.

Recent contributions include $7,200 from National Caribbe Canada Ltd., $1,000 from Odeon Theatres Canada Ltd., $1,500 from Lever Brothers Ltd. and $9,424.50 from B.C. Forest Products Ltd. employees.

The lumber firm employees gift boosts the total for the employees division of the campaign to $214,571—almost $35,000 over the objective.

Up-Island committee has received more than $15,000, not included in the latest total as it has not been received at campaign headquarters.

General chairman R. B. Wilson said he is confident the goal of $2,500,000 will be attained in time to take full advantage of the matching dollar grant to be paid by B.C.

'Miss Sidney' Title
Decided Tonight

Nine of Sidney's prettiest girls will parade for judges in Sanscha Hall at 8 p.m. tonight. At stake is the title "Miss Sidney."

The queen contest will be accompanied by a variety show featuring Michael and Phillip Edamson on piano and violin, and ballet dancing by Tony Edamson, Susan Hemmings, Wendy Tebo and Judy Cameron.

There will also be tap dancing by Diane Beale, accordion selections by Ron Chisholm and songs by Eileen Pettigrew and Ron Brown.

Self-Sufficient Person Cannot Love Christ

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

The heart of worship is selflessness. A minister who is self-conscious or ostentatious, or "getting something off his chest," destroys worship. Similarly a worshipper spoils it if he is self-giving. A man who comes to "listen to the sermon" or "enjoy the music" does not worship God.

A worshipper must have an utter self-forgetfulness which merges in fellowship and a feeling of need which reaches out for communion. An arrogant, self-sufficient man cannot worship. He belongs to himself. He is dreadfully self-aware.

A Christian congregation is an organic whole consisting of much more than the sum total of its individuals. It has the tradition of the Last Supper, the promise that "where two or three are gathered together" in His name, there is Christ, and the world-wide and eternal Holy Catholic Church, the Communion of Saints in heaven and earth.

There is no such thing as a solitary Christian. To be "in Christ" means to be in His body, the church, belonging to the People of God. Without community there is no worship. The individualistic personality, the isolated member of "the lonely crowd" whose only relation to the church is a casual visit, who recognizes no obligations of fellowship nor compulsion of redemptive love, finds no reality of worship and has no vision of God.

The liturgical emphasis of ceremonial and ritual, therefore, essential as it is, without a primary loving commitment and spirit of sympathy, chills and depresses.

Your modern church-goer is destructively critical. He looks for something to criticize—ushers, hymns, sermon, fixtures, anthem. He is a fault-finder, out for himself, not giving himself, not belonging to anything outside or above himself. The commandment of Christ to love himself sounds blasphemous.

To take mean and cross-grained human nature and make it sociable and kind is the hardest thing in the world. Jesus Christ Himself failed at the Last Supper. Men will give money and even time to the church, but they refuse to give love.

Poles Hungry for Gospel

People of Communist Poland "little to allow missionaries in, until eight o'clock, and -sat down. Nobody moved. "Why don't you preach some more," they asked. I preached for another hour. They still wanted to hear some more.

"I sang a few songs and spoke again until 10 o'clock. I said 'That's enough, I can't go on any more.' But they would have been willing to hear some more."

"In many places the churches were so full that numbers of people couldn't get in, so I opened the windows and doors so that the people outside could hear."

The people of Poland are hungry for Gospel literature, too. Mr. Kapitaniuk says: Communist authorities have given permission for the printing of a certain amount of literature to be printed.

An emergency supply of paper is being sought in a hurry for the printing of John Bunyan's "The Pilgrim's Progress." Official permission for printing of the book expires soon and may not be renewed.

Mr. Kapitaniuk was born in Athabasca, Alta. He and his Polish wife have been visiting Mr. Kapitaniuk's Ukrainian-speaking parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kapitaniuk, at 408 Alpha Street.

"After I finished Bible school training I realized my life was too short to live only for myself," he said. "A few years, and you're gone. The challenge was the command 'Go ye unto all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature.'"

King Fisherman Contest

More Than $3,000 At Stake in Prizes

The Daily Colonist King Fisherman contest puts all Vancouver Island, from Sayward to Victoria, in one big, fishfest with more than $3,000 in prizes at stake.

Because of the scores of hidden-weight prizes, including top prize of an all-expense-paid trip for two to Cancun, every angler who can catch a five-pound salmon or one-pound trout or bass—has a chance in the Colonist contest.

Fishermen must be subscribers to win hidden-weight prizes. Weight will have no bearing on who wins hidden-weight prizes, but it will take a real King Fisherman to win the special trophies for the biggest fish in each division—trout, bass, spring salmon, tyee salmon and coho salmon.

It will also take expert fishermen to win crests which will be awarded monthly to the fishermen catching the 25 largest fish in each division each month.

Therefore, in the King Fisherman contest, it pays to be a subscriber to the Colonist and it pays to weigh in each fish caught.

too. Mr. Kapitaniuk says: Communist authorities have given permission for the printing of a certain amount of literature to be printed.

An emergency supply of paper is being sought in a hurry for the printing of John Bunyan's "The Pilgrim's Progress." Official permission for printing of the book expires soon and may not be renewed.

Mr. Kapitaniuk was born in Athabasca, Alta. He and his Polish wife have been visiting Mr. Kapitaniuk's Ukrainian-speaking parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kapitaniuk, at 408 Alpha Street.

Indian Ownership Claim Gets Laugh from Bonner

A claim by Rev. Dr. Peter Kelly that B.C. still belongs to the Indians because the provincial government has never signed treaties with them drew shouts of laughter from Attorney General Robert Bonner yesterday.

"If we don't get rid of some of those federal tight money policies that are ruining the country, we should possibly give it back to the Indians," he said.

20 Light Years To Talk in Space

DETROIT (UPI) — A Harvard astronomer said last night that organisms more advanced than man probably exist on some other planets but communicating with them presents difficulties.

For one thing, said Dr. Harlow Shapley, it would take 20 light years to exchange a question and answer.

Shapley, professor emeritus of astronomy at Harvard, said: "Probably no suitable planet station is nearer than 10 light years. So far no one is seriously contemplating velocities of travel or of signal greater than the velocity of light."

Variety Talent Shines

By BERT BINNY

There was a lot of most acceptable talent on stage at the variety concert presented last night by St. Andrew's Cathedral Clee Club.

A particularly outstanding contribution was made by soprano Jeannette Bacchus, who has a wonderfully powerful and flexible natural voice. Good instrumental solos were provided by violinist Don Kissinger and accordionist Richard Parkinson and there was a fine piano duet by Margaret Taylor and Mrs. O. D. Young. Dancer Alicia Kenda's "Obere" was well executed but spoiled through sound system trouble.

Emcee and baritone soloist Don Mulcahy discharged both roles effectively and the glee club was at its best. Comedian-musician Reg Stoffer proved extremely popular with his whistling and his musical saw. The program concluded with a one-act play, "Michael," directed by Mrs. H. G. Bissett.

Monkey Mutiny

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) —

A monkey in St. Louis can lay claim to the title of "great emancipator." The monkey got out of his pet shop cage and freed three other monkeys.

The four monkeys then freed the puppies, fed and freed the alligators, put fish food in the bird cages and bird food in the fish bowls, and stole two dimes from the cash register.

Then one of the monkeys went for a stroll and got nabbed by police who put down the mutiny.

Vancouver Police Armed

New Riot Gas Causes Nausea

VANCOUVER (CP) — A new gas that results in violent illness within seconds of being applied has been issued to some police squads in Vancouver. Police say the gas is to be used only in cases of extreme emergency.

The gas, called sickening gas, renders a person helpless immediately. It produces a nausea similar to a violent attack of sea sickness.

Tests indicate that the gas is so potent it can quell a mob within seconds and, while it produces illness, leaves no harmful after effects.

Tax Liens Against Celebrities

U.S. Hand Deep in Purse Of Boxers, Film Stars

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —

The internal revenue service has disclosed a lengthy list of tax liens against movie and sports figures. Included were comedian Bud Abbott, former heavyweight champion Joe Louis, singer-actress Judy Garland, comedienne Carol Channing, writer William Saroyan and singer-dancer Sammy Davis, Jr.

Abbott, once the partner of the late Lou Costello, and his wife have liens amounting to $207,467 against them, said district director Robert Riddell.

Riddell said some of the cases will be settled by agreement and the others adjudicated by the U.S. tax court at future hearings.

Louis is one of two fighters on the list. The other is retired boxer Art Aragon, who is charged with being $4,389 in arrears in his taxes. Riddell said Louis was $15,416 behind.

Davis and his father jointly owe $56,654 while Miss Garland and her husband, Sid Luft, are behind $3,924, Riddell said.

The internal revenue service charged Miss Channing, owes

Johnson-Kennedy Numbers Game

What's My Count?

Negroes

No Party Supported

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — A Negro labor leader last night refused to endorse John Kennedy or Richard Nixon for the presidency on grounds that neither "has gone far enough" on the issue of civil rights.

A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters and a vice-president of the AFL-CIO, said both parties "have tried to sweep the civil rights issue under the rug."

Randolph said Negroes would stage mass demonstrations at both party conventions "to bring civil rights back before the convention as a major campaign issue."

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Backers of Senators Lyndon Johnson and John Kennedy engaged yesterday in a delegate-counting numbers game which each side cited as proof its man will win the Democratic presidential nomination.

The Johnson camp sought mainly to soften the impact of Kennedy's gain of 87 pledges from New York state delegation Thursday. But Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., a member of that delegation, said Kennedy would command at least 93% of its 114 votes at the national convention next month.

Johnson strategists predicted a third ballot victory for the Texan, who is Senate Democratic leader. But Roosevelt forecast a first ballot triumph for Kennedy.

From comparative middle ground, Democratic national committeeman Jacob Arvey of Illinois said Kennedy's New York showing strengthens his belief the Massachusetts senator will win the nomination or choose the nominee.

Arvey, who has been considered an Adlai Stevenson supporter, said in Chicago he has not "seen any surge of delegate strength" this year for the 1952-1956 Democratic standard-bearer. He also predicted Kennedy would get a "preponderance" of the 69 Illinois delegate votes.

Kennedy's claims of strength were challenged roundly by former interior secretary Oscar Chapman, chairman of the Citizens for Johnson Committee. He said Kennedy's forces "are well over 150 votes away from the nomination and have almost exhausted their source of delegates."

"The Kennedy bandwagon, which has been well-oiled and supercharged, has not come near the finish line," Chapman said. He called this week's New York results "far below the prediction of Kennedy's backers."

Chapman also issued a statement challenging Kennedy's report to New York liberal leaders that he hoped to win the nomination without Southern support.

"If that is true then why was Ted Kennedy (a brother) in Texas just before the Texas convention trying to employ a public relations firm?" under state primary laws or Chapman asked. "Why did Senator Kennedy have breakfast with the governor of Alabama? Why did Bobby Kennedy (another brother) attend a Florida delegates meeting June 12? Why was Bobby in North Carolina last week in an unpublicized meeting with high officials?"

Johnson declined to comment on the New York development.

"I don't go around counting delegates," he told reporters. With New York's 87 votes, Kennedy had 542 1/2 first-ballot delegates committed to him

Dik-Dik, Duiker Dive in Price

LONDON (CP) — Parliament was told this week that in future dik-diks and duikers will be making less expensive entries into Britain.

The announcement came as the House of Commons prepared to debate the government's credit squeeze. But the two subjects are unrelated.

HOW MUCH? The dik-dik-duiker business was raised by Barnett Janner, Labor member for Leicester Northwest, who demanded to know how much it cost to prepare, print and issue orders authorizing two duikers and one dik-dik to land in Britain May 30.

MONEY WASTE It cost £14, said John Godber, parliamentary secretary to the ministry of agriculture.

Riches for Waif

PARIS (UPI) — A little orphan girl from the Pacific island of Tahiti does not know it yet, but she has become heir to a $68,000,000 fortune.

Hinano Tiata, 5—the name means "Flower of Tahiti"—was discovered as a friendless waif 17 months ago by French chemical magnate Maurice Solvay and his actress wife, Josette Day, who were then on a tour of the Pacific.

The couple, charmed by the little girl, brought her back to live with them in their home near Versailles.

Solvay, one of the richest men in Europe, died two days ago. His wife announced Hinano would share the fortune, eventually becoming one of the wealthiest women on the continent.

But the Flower of Tahiti does not know yet that her father is dead.

"I have told her he is on a long journey that will last a long, long time," the widow said.

She added she eventually would adopt an other child to help Hinano make the transition from her simple ways as an island girl to the sophistication of ultra-high European society.

Hard-Worsted Suit Doesn't Suit Guards

COLUMBIA, S.C. (UPI) — Guards at the South Carolina State Penitentiary found a Negro convict yesterday wearing a hand-made suit of armor complete with a 20-pound metal helmet fashioned from metal and wire from the prison garment factory.

The convict, a life-timer, was held for observation.

'Increase Food Bill To Save Farmers'

OTTAWA (UPI) — Agriculture Minister Harkness said Friday city dwellers should realize food prices must be increased rather than decreased to keep farmers in business.

Harkness said Canadians pay a smaller percentage of their income for food than almost every other country and food prices are cheaper in relation to average income than 20 years ago. But this meant the farmer was making correspondingly less.

Court Parade

Summons Ignorer Pays $35

A driver who ignored 12 tickets for overparking at meters, and two for overparking in time zones, was fined a total of $35 in city police court yesterday. The tickets, had they been paid when due, would have cost him $14.

Magistrate William Ostler levied fines of $2.50 on each charge, plus the costs. When told accused had at one time been served personally with nine summonses at once on the charges, he asked why they'd been ignored.

Said William R. Kaye, 100 Chancellor:

"I didn't have any money." "It's not an offence not to have any money," said the magistrate. "It is an offence to fail to obey a summons of the court."

Fines of $50 each were levied against three men who pleaded guilty to consuming liquor in Beacon Hill Park last May 28.

The three were Daniel Albertan, Paul Gerhart Munk and Joseph McRae, all of HMCS Margaree.

A warning to mend his ways and a suspended sentence were given William Lindsay, 18, of 823 Colville, who earlier had admitted taking a car without consent of the owner.

Magistrate Ostler placed the youth under bond of $250 for six months, after noting that while accused's probation report was not a bad one, nor a good one either.

In Colwood court yesterday Frank Copley, 4260 Carey, was fined a total of $100 plus $30 costs, on charges arising from defects on each of 10 trucks he owns. Defects included inadequate brakes, mufflers, stop lights, turn signals.

Tornadoes Slash U.S. Northeast

BOSTON (UPI)—A series of tornadoes roared through communities in the northeast Friday, destroying homes, unroofing two hotels and felling scores of power lines and trees.

The twisters dipped down in New York and Pennsylvania, injuring several people. There were no reports of deaths.

A tornado ripped through the Schenectady, N.Y., area, demolishing homes and scattering debris over a wide area.

Police in Rotterdam, near Schenectady, said several homes and farm buildings were destroyed there. Roofs of numerous homes and business buildings were torn off and some houses were struck by falling trees.

In Schenectady, a three-story brick and concrete building was shattered, its roof hurled 50 yards, and a truck was blown into a large display window of a market.

Fatal Mistake Costs $35,000

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP)—A settlement for $35,000 damages of Mrs. Elzear Roy, 35, was made out Friday in an Ontario Supreme Court action claiming negligence by the G. Tamblin Co. Ltd. as a result of the Feb. 17 strychnine death of Mrs. Elzear Roy, 35. A coroner's jury found Wednesday that Mrs. Roy died after taking a prescription filled by a Tamblin drugstore here.

The prescription called for sodium sulphate, a mild stomach powder. But the bottle supplied to Mrs. Roy contained strychnine sulphate, a poison.

Summit

Both Sides Blamed

LONDON (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and the United States were both criticized yesterday by the Archbishop of Canterbury for the U-2 spy plane incident and the summit breakup.

The head of the Church of England, the Most Rev. Geoffrey Francis Fisher, rebuked Khrushchev for his "abusive" language in attacking the United States and President Eisenhower.

He also criticized America for its lack of "good manners" in not apologizing at once for the spy plane incident.

Writing in his monthly diocesan notes, the archbishop said:

"The more Khrushchev said, the more abusive and, therefore, the more ineffective to any sensible person he became; and where he expected to gain credit somewhere he has, I should think, lost credit everywhere."

NICOLAI BOBROVNIKOV
... splattered

Youth Arrested

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—The visiting mayor of Moscow was splattered with a raw egg Friday by a man local residents said they thought was the son of a Lithuanian refugee who suffered under Communist rule.

Ged Janusomis, 20, of this city was arrested in connection with the incident and charged with disturbing the peace. He was released on $200 bail.

The incident occurred while Mayor Nikolai Bobrovnikov was posing for photographs in front of the province of Ontario's Refectory Restaurant at Queen Victoria Park near Niagara Falls.

While sightseers were making way for television star Hugh O'Brian (Wyatt Earp) who was to pose with the visiting Russian mayor, a man walked calmly through ranks of plainclothes police, took the egg from his pocket and hurled it, striking the mayor on the neck.

The egg splattered members of the mayor's party, including O'Brian.

Mayor Bobrovnikov casually allowed his coat to be cleaned off and instructed photographers to continue taking photographs.

Also in the party and sprinkled with parts of the egg were Mayor George Nelms of Ottawa and interpreter William Kereluk, an RCMP squadron leader.

"The fellow came up from behind," said photographer Roy Crogan. "The first thing I knew, O'Brian flung up his arm trying to ward off the egg. But it was too late."

"He may be the fastest gun in the west, but this guy was faster."

Airliner, 51 Lost Near Rio Bay

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—A twin-engine Convair airliner en route from Brasilia to Rio de Janeiro with 51 persons aboard was missing Friday night and feared to have gone down in Rio's Guanabara Bay.

It was reported that several Brazilian Congressmen who often make weekend visits from the new capital to Rio de Janeiro might be aboard the plane.

Real Airlines said the Convair left Brasilia with 17 passengers and a crew of three. It picked up 31 passengers at Belo Horizonte about half way between Rio and Brasilia.

A Brazilian air force search was under way.

The plane last reported to the tower at Santos Dumont airport here it was approaching the field at an altitude of about 1,800 feet near an island in the bay.

After this report, the plane's radio suddenly went off. It was raining at the time.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Curator Alan Best of Stanley Park Zoo warned Friday that a bear is loose in the park.

Council Seeks New Plan

By R. O. MARRION

City council, its View Street parking and mall plan defeated at the polls, will seek some other way of preventing downtown deterioration from traffic and parking congestion.

"There's no use being downhearted. We've just got to put our thinking caps on, every one of us," Ald. Arthur Dowell said yesterday, and Mayor Percy Scurrell and the rest of council agreed.

ENQUIRY

For a start, council approved a suggestion by Ald. Hugh Ramsay that it enquire into the possibility of the Vancouver Downtown Parking Corporation extending its non-profit operations to Victoria.

And Ald. M. H. Mooney said he has "an entirely different plan" under study, which he hopes to be able to present to the next meeting.

IT'S WELCOME

"It will be very welcome," said Mayor Scurrell, "I can assure you of that — any plan that promises some possibility of improving the situation." Council filed the bylaw defeated at the polls, and the companion bylaw to establish a meter-revenue reserve fund for the parking-facility debt redemption.

PUT IN ARCHIVES

"Put it in the archives," Ald. Dowell said. But council may still establish a reserve fund for parking facilities. It asked the finance committee to consider this matter.

HOW TO INTERPRET?

Ald. Rev. J. L. W. McLean wondered what council should infer from the defeat of the bylaw—"How are we to interpret the result of the vote? Are we through trying to do something, or is it just this plan that was turned down?"

PARTICULAR PLAN

"I think it was just this particular plan," Mayor Scurrell replied, adding that the problem remained and "it's up to us to find some other way of alleviating the situation."

Ald. McLean suggested that council might have been looking at the problem from one angle instead of several, including the shopper's.

REAL CONCERN

"Well, speaking for myself, there was real concern on my part to see it go through because I can foresee the effect it's going to have on downtown property if we don't grapple with the problem some way."

Next Crash Due Nov. 18, 1970

CALGARY (CP)—A U.S. economist predicted Friday his country's economy will crash Nov. 18, 1970, at 10.30 a.m.

Dr. Arthur Upgren, professor of economics at Macalester College, St. Paul, Minn., told a meeting of the Calgary Life Underwriters Association that Canada would not be involved in the disaster because of its stable banking system.

Banks in the United States, however, will have difficulty financing a tremendous expansion in the next decade and loan ratios will increase. The country's liquid reserves will fall as loan ratios rise.

When the liquidity rate reaches 30 per cent, he said, it would be a good time for Canadians to sell their interests in U.S. companies. The bust would come at 10.30 a.m. Nov. 18, 1970, because most crises come in November and bank clearings take place at that time of day.

Island to Idaho: 700 Miles in Month

Note, Bottle Found in Fish—It's True!

This fish story is told by Michael Cross, 22, assistant lighthouse keeper at Sheringham, on the west coast of Vancouver Island 30 miles from Victoria.

Even he finds it difficult to believe—but he has a letter to prove it.

A month ago he placed a note with his address on it in a bottle and tossed it into the Pacific Ocean.

Last week he received a letter from a girl in Lewiston, Idaho, which said she found his note and the bottle—inside a 46½-inch silver salmon.

She had caught the fish in the Snake River, a tributary of the Columbia.

Nancy Struve, 641 Eighteenth Ave., Lewiston, was cleaning the fish when she found the prize. She wrote: "I was really happy . . . my friends didn't believe me at first, so I showed them the bottle."

The fish apparently picked up the bottle somewhere between Sheringham and Portland. Then it covered about 320 miles up the Columbia to the Snake River. Total distance to Lewiston is close to 700 miles.

"The more I think of it the more I realize how fantastic it is," said Mr. Cross. "Bottles get washed up on the beach every day but they don't get into the middle of the United States by fish express every day."

"I'll be lucky if anyone believes it. That's why I'm hanging on to the original letter."

Mr. Bennett's Flag

Is it permissible to ask whether the so-called British Columbia flag, which the premier is purported to have brought from Great Britain, is really a flag for the province and its people, or a form of standard to be flown at the various stoppages across the province while the cabinet is in circuit?

It is noticed that the flag—or standard—was raised at a recent stoppage of the pilgrimage by Mr. W. A. C. Bennett himself; admittedly it could be of magical political value—or could it?

When of course we have a legally declared national flag it will prove the confounding of the confused thinking both federally and provincially. Meantime, British Columbia's crest is of inestimable value as a sign of the "ties that bind."

ELLEN HART.

More Humane

The Victoria branch of the B.C. SPCA would like to publicly commend the reported decision made by the finance committee of the municipality of Saanich on June 21 regarding the adoption of an "under control" bylaw rather than a leash law and to adopt a more humane method of destruction for unwanted or injured animals.

This society recommends that all dog owners in Saanich do everything possible to keep their dogs under their immediate control when they are off their own property and to conform to all the requirements of the new bylaw when it comes into force. This could well be the last chance if dog owners refuse to recognize their personal responsibility for the actions of their dogs to their community and neighbors.

This society has always contended that the rights of those people who do not own or like dogs should be respected and that they be given the necessary protection from annoyance by the animal or dog bylaws.

The privilege of owning a dog also carries responsibilities: those of seeing that the animal is properly cared for and that it is not a nuisance to neighbors or a hazard on roads.

Lawbreaking Juveniles

Your editorial on the above subject is of personal interest to me: I hope to other readers too.

Section 33 (2), Criminal Code of Canada, Juvenile Delinquents Act, reads: "Any person who, being the parent or guardian of the child (16 or under in the code—18 or under in the provincial act) and being able to do so, knowingly neglects to do that which would directly tend to prevent said child being or becoming a juvenile delinquent, or to remove the conditions that render or are likely to render the child a juvenile delinquent, is liable on summary conviction before a juvenile court or magistrate to a fine not exceeding $500 or to imprisonment for a period not exceeding two years or to both fine and imprisonment."

In 35 years of working with delinquents I have never known that section of the code to be put to its full advantage: I venture to say that if it had been, juvenile delinquency would never have been as serious a problem as it is today.

A provision of that nature, with a punishment as severe, should be included in all provincial juvenile delinquents acts, all government liquor control acts. I would raise the age to 21 under which juvenile delinquents could be charged. I would see that the act was put into force. Parents will sit up and take notice then.

Many thousands of delinquents of all ages came my way. Most of them had become rebels against society because of their drinking habits. A standard question I ask when counselling them was, "When did you start to drink?" Almost without exception they would reply, "Before I was 16." There is the answer to the problem of delinquency.

You mention that the waiters "are scared stiff of admitting juveniles." Good! That is what the law is for! It is time that juvenile delinquents, their parents too, were "scared stiff!"

Courteous but Blunt Reply To Jaycee Africa Protest

DUNCAN — Jaycees of Duncan have received a courteous but "blunt" reply from South African Jaycees in return for a "protest" against that country's segregation policies.

The letter states "some retaliatory methods were justified for actions by wild natives against white settlers, and that it is debatable if the non-whites are capable of taking control of the country."

"It was an informative letter. It is clear enough, though, that they mean we should keep out of their domestic problems," said Jaycee president Horst Nowrath.

The club protested to all South African Jaycee clubs and sent a copy to Prime Minister John Diefenbaker.

"We did what we feel we should have, and through world protest they have stopped shooting," said Mr. Nowrath. The letter has yet to be dealt with by the membership here.

The letter states: "Your protest was transmitted to all members of the South African national executive and to all local presidents, and from the replies I have so far received there appears to be unanimity in stating that this is a domestic issue to be settled by the people here."

"It is a strange thing, but like marriage when a husband and wife quarrel they usually

Cowichan River Survey Asked

DUNCAN—The Federal government is being asked to conduct a biological survey of the Cowichan River.

A group meeting here Thursday decided it was needed for "rehabilitating the sport fish run" and to "investigate the methods employed in the taking of fish on sport tackle."

At the meeting were members of the Chamber of Commerce, Cowichan Fish and Game Association and the Cowichan Bay Salmon Club.

Need for the move was evident, said representatives, in the "pressure" each year by sports fishermen for spring and coho, and because of the "considerable investment spent to facilitate and accommodate the sport fishing public in the area."

The resolution is to be sent to the federal fisheries at Vancouver.

Tree-Seed Experts To Meet

Some 30 members of the Northwest Forest Tree-Seed Committee of the Western Forestry and Conservation Association will hold a two-day meeting at the Cowichan Lake Forest Experiment Station Monday and Tuesday.

With the value of the forest tree-seed business in this area now running into hundreds of thousands of dollars per year, these forest scientists from many parts of the Pacific Northwest will consider such matters as seed certification, the effects of poison treatments on the germination of seed used for reforestation, and the amount of damage caused to seed when spread by mechanical means from the air or on the ground.

The chairman of the meeting will be Charles Rindt, chief of reforestation for Region 6, United States Forest Service. Members attending will represent provincial and federal forestry services, the forest industries, and the United States Forest Service.

Among those attending from the B.C. Forest Service will be J. S. Stokes, assistant chief forester, planning branch; George Silburn, forester-in-charge of reforestation, and R. H. Spilsbury, chief of forest research.

"I agree that colored people are as capable of accepting rights and responsibilities as much as anyone else, but we have an enormous African (black) population which is only a few stages removed from witchcraft and primitive ways, and is by no means ready to assume the obligations of administration."

"The Belgian Congo is to receive its independence shortly, and the native population is seething... white settlers are fleeing in fear for their lives... and this makes one wonder if the African leaders in the Congo who are to assume responsibility are indeed ready for it when they cannot even control their own people from running amok."

Lifetime Chance For Lucky Miss

DUNCAN—The "best junior actress" in Cowichan school competitions will visit the Stratford, Ont., festival next month on a Canada Council grant.

Busily packing, unpacking and preparing to pack is Virginia Lefever, 17, a popular Cowichan High School student who enters Grade 12 next year.

"It's the chance of a lifetime," said Virginia. "I must admit that I'm very, very lucky."

So successful was the Canada Council train to Stratford last year that the Canadian Education Association is again sponsoring the 23 scholarships for B.C. students.

The scholarship provides free transportation, living expenses and tickets for three days' attendance at the festival. Dates are July 26 to 29, inclusive, for performances of "King John," "Midsummer Night's Dream," "Romeo and Juliet" and "Pinafore."

Miss Lefever is interested in drama, ballet and elocution and has won major awards and bursaries at festivals.

Whistling West Wind Brings No Decision

Stiff west wind blew what looked like a sure game-winning single right into the glove of Olsens' outfielder Bob Lumley in the bottom of the ninth inning last night and ended all hope of a Senior Amateur Baseball League decision.

With the score tied 3-3 in the last half of the ninth, Eagles' Les Brice was on second with one out. Steve Bishop cracked out a blow and Brice was off like a shot around third base when Lumley gathered in the suddenly-slowed ball and fired it to second for a double play.

Handicap Removed From Foreign-Breds

VANCOUVER (CP)—Foreign-bred thoroughbreds will race on equal footing with Canadian-bred horses on British Columbia tracks in the future, the B.C. Racing Commission announced Friday.

A rule that penalized foreign-breds from five to seven pounds in all races except handicaps was thrown out in a move to encourage United States owners to bring their horses to B.C. tracks.

The change is effective immediately. It eliminates a rule that required foreign-breds up to three years old to carry seven pounds more, and those four years old and over five pounds more than Canadian-breds.

Commission secretary Ken McConnell said Canadian-bred horses no longer need the protection given by the old rule. He said that prior to 1930, there were only about 75 thoroughbreds foaled west of the Great Lakes.

'Stoutless' Sunday 19th Hole Stoney Dry

By OSCAR FRALEY
DUBLIN (UPI)—Those two grand Irishmen, Omar Khayam and Johnny Appleseed, led the bibulous golf brigade in deep mourning at the Canada Cup matches Friday.

Omar, the "jug of wine" man, must have been a golfing Gael because any such likes his "wee drop of the crathur." And to go along with such thinking, Johnny Appleseed didn't plant all those trees just to get apples, Jack.

But come Sunday at Portmarnock the 19th hole is going to be stoney dry.

As a prelude to this drastic decision, heralded in Dublin papers as "stoutless Sunday," you have to go back a ways to the British Masters tournament in October. And, also, you must understand the terrain.

Portmarnock, where the Canada Cup is being played, sits on a sandy spit of land jutting out into the Irish Sea. There's one road in and, naturally, only one road out.

Thus, last October things came to a pretty pass when 27,000 spectators showed up to see the British Masters. And, to complicate matters, a sporting goods company began handing out food tickets which, some quaffing genius quickly discovered, could be used instead for liquid refreshment.

The results would have made the Messrs. Khayam and Appleseed exceedingly exhilarated. The combination of Irishmen, large quantities of free thirst quenchers and two of their local heroes making a run at the top prize made it a day to celebrate, indeed.

They did, arrogh. So well that it was 6 o'clock the next morning before the last of them left the pleasant pitch and putt premises.

They staggered out of sand bunkers in the dawn's early light. Others had to be pulled from Dublin Bay. Some, in spirits which may be designated safely as "high," tried to swim across to Dublin. Others just pitched the whole business and spent the night snoring blissfully in cars parked as sedately as if they were in a used car lot. There were those, too, who drove around the course to inspect its moonspew beauty and the shoreline was littered with more boats than they had in the Spanish Armada.

It was something like New Year's Eve, and an Irish wake, see.

On Sunday, whatever the weather, Portmarnock will be dry. Thirty thousand fairway enthusiasts are expected to flock to Portmarnock but tens of thousands of bottles of good Irish stout and beer will remain unopened.

"Ah," breathed one when he read it, "but Sunday will be a terrible thirsty day."

From the way he said it, Monday will be something to see.

Among the two-man teams from 30 nations.

The crowd didn't even mind too much that the "boys from the parish to the west" had taken the play from their own Christy O'Connor and Norm Drew. They cheered the fluid swing of the grinning Snead as he "really unwound it" for a two-round total of 139. He had opened with a 71 on his 7,093 yard, par 36-36-72 course, and his second crack at it was good enough to match the handsome van Donck. The Belgian added a 71 to his opening 68 to share the individual lead.

Palmer obviously was off his game after an opening 69 and had to play "better than I know" to card his 71 for 140 total which dropped him one stroke off the pace in a deadlock with Gary Player of South Africa.

Another shot back at 141 came O'Connor, who fired a 68 Friday, and Drew, plus Argentinians.

Slammin' Sammy Snead shot a four-under-par 35-33-68 Friday to tie the 36-hole lead in the National Trophy and Canada Cup golf championship while Arnold Palmer's 34-37-71 helped give the United States the team lead.

A cheering gallery of more than 15,000 followed the two Yanks around the sunswapt course and when the halfway mark was reached in the four-day, 72-hole competition, it was "The Slammer" in a head-and-head battle with an older 48-year-old and the United States three shots ahead of Ireland in the tussle.

Pages, who proved tough to beat when they got pitching in their sweep over Studs, will likely have manager Art Worth on the mound in the evening game.

Police Question Suspect
In Saanich Safecracking

Syndicate Plans Cruises

Deal for Idle Ferries?
It's News to Us—CPR

Reports that a syndicate knows nothing of any offer to purchase the ships which have been laid up at the CPR dock on the Inner Harbor since the company dropped its night run to Vancouver.

The official added, however, "we will always listen to any business proposition."

The proposed new cruise service would operate between Tacoma, Victoria and Vancouver, informants said. The cruise would last two days with an overnight stay in Vancouver.

No starting date or further details were given except that two vessels have already been surveyed and found suitable.

Saanich police are holding a man for questioning in connection with a safe-cracking overnight Thursday at Ellison Milling and Elevator Co. Ltd., 550 Cuddehul.

Detectives said it was the first safe-cracking in Saanich in two years.

An estimated $400 in cash was taken from the heavy floor safe, not visible from the road, which was found toppled forward with its back chopped open.

The thief smashed an outside window next to a bathroom to enter the office where the safe was kept, said police.

Theft was discovered shortly after 8 a.m. yesterday by police.

City Can Mow Cheaper

No Cut Rates
For Cutting JobSingle Bid
Double
Old Cost

City parks department employees can breathe easier today.

City council yesterday rejected a single tender received for the cutting and watering of boulevards and greens, because, parks chairman Ald. M. H. Mooney said, the $92,000 bid was twice the cost of the parks department doing the work.

INQUIRY CALL

Tenders were called after council at budget time decided to see if some city work could be done more cheaply by contracting it out.

The tender was submitted by Ragbir Singh and Tirath Singh Sundher.

OTHER TRIES

Council, however, is still interested in finding if it can save money in other fields of work. Yesterday it decided that tenders should be called on local-improvement sidewalks, curbs and gutters.

Council approved in principle the commercial rezoning of the property for the proposed $10,000,000 Hillside Plaza development, with several conditions including a "reasonable" time-limit for development, a requirement that view-obscuring landscaping must be undertaken to protect adjoining residential property, and a stipulation that final plans must be approved before rezoning becomes effective.

GOING UP

The advisory planning commission recommended rejection of an application for a zoning bylaw amendment to permit an eight-storey apartment block to be built on Douglas across from Goodacre Lake, but council instructed the city solicitor to draft a bylaw allowing up to eight storeys.

"We haven't enough land in the city and there's going to be a continual demand for apartments higher than four storeys," said Mayor Percy Scourrah. "We have to face it, you've got to go up."

DEFINE CHURCH

A request of the St. George's Congregation of the Ukrainian-Greek Orthodox Church for recognition of 1842 Oak Bay Avenue as a church was referred to finance committee for consideration, leading Ald. Rev. J. L. W. McLean to suggest that council should have a definition of a church—"I'm referring to a group of people, not a building."

It seemed to him, he said, that more and more groups of people were calling themselves a church, although he was "not saying they are not."

City Solicitor T. P. O'Grady said it was the use of a building that counted as far as council was concerned, for tax exemption.

Council also:

Endorsed a Victoria-Esquamalt health board resolution opposing subdivision of land off Kingham Place on Portage Inlet if septic tanks are to be used.

Removed four lots on Belleville next to the British America Paint Co. plant from the reserve list to permit their sale.

Approved in principle the idea of passing a bylaw to allow trees or shrubs in them—to be placed on city sidewalks, subject to city approval, although the city solicitor expressed doubt that council had authority to pass such a bylaw.

In a closed committee session after the regular meeting, authorized Mayor Scourrah to appoint a citizens' committee and asked city department heads to work with the Capital Region Planning Board in the urban renewal study it is carrying out in the city.

Artists Fail to Rally Round Flag

New B.C. Ensign a 'Clutter'
But Better Than Predecessor

British Columbia's new flag, hoisted yesterday at the legislative flagpole, is a hodgepodge of grossly exaggerated symbols, say several Victoria artists.

The new banner, raised here at 10:20 a.m. by Attorney-General Robert Bonner, Recreation Minister Earle Westwood and Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston, was variously described as "too complicated," "cluttered," and "not pleasant to look at."

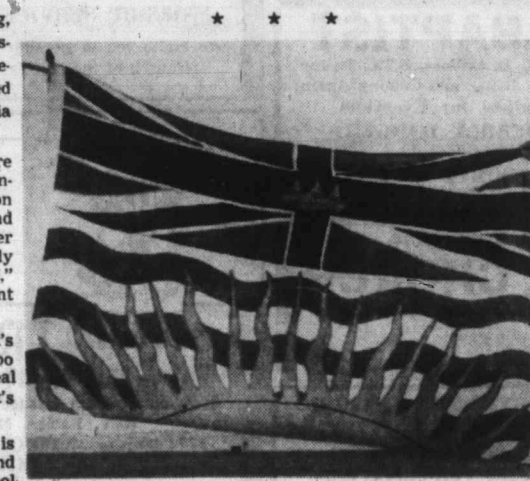

William D. West said, "It's not memorable enough. It's too complicated to carry any real impact. I'm not keen on it; it's an unduly elaborate design."

"The ferry system flag is very good. It has a simple and memorable kind of symbol (dogwood blossom) which I don't feel the other one has. But, I do think this new flag is a vast improvement over the fantastic thing they had before."

Fleming Jorgensen said, "It's confusing. People in other countries are going to see it and wonder what we're trying to convey. It's going to be hard to explain when they ask about the sun, the lines in back, the crown and the Union Jack."

"Four different elements are too much for a provincial flag. It should be very clean cut, and with one symbol for the province. The flag could certainly be improved."

Mrs. Nita Forrest said, "If we're going to have a new flag, I think we should get a more artistic one from someone who has a good sense of design. It should be typical of B.C. and in good taste, not corny like Century Sam."

B.C.'s NEW FLAG

"My first reaction when I saw it was not one of pleasure. I don't like it. That starfish or bursting sun at the bottom, I don't think it's good at all."

Michael Morris said, "I think it's a far better design than they've had before but I feel there are too many symbols and that they are too large for the whole thing."

His mother, Mrs. R. G. Morris, also an artist, said, "It looks not quite simple enough. It is a little cluttered."

It appeared that the artists generally felt that the banner, with its yellow sun on blue and silver sea beneath a Union Jack with centred crown, should have remained in the vaults of the College of Arms in London where it had lain since 1906 when King Edward VII awarded it to the province by royal warrant.

It was brought back from England last week by Premier W. A. C. Bennett who was still in Vancouver when the trio of cabinet ministers yesterday officially unfurled it in Victoria.

Murphy Raps Voters:

People in Past
Wreck Future

People who live in the past are destroying the future of Greater Victoria, Coun. Stanley Murphy of Saanich charged last night.

Coun. Murphy's outburst, was sparked by the defeat of city council's downtown mall proposal Thursday, but, he said, the reason for the defeat governs most similar projects.

"It is tragic that decisions at the polls are made by predominantly older people who fear an additional tax burden," he said.

"They are opposed to amalgamation, schools, sewers, malls or anything that costs money."

He also blamed the younger residents of the area for a "couldn't care less" attitude, which in effect gives control to the large, elderly section of Greater Victoria's population.

"These same, younger people will expect the government to look after them in future years," he said. "What a heritage to leave their children."

"Greater Victoria was not built by people who were content to stand still. We need more people of vision if Greater Victoria is to progress."

A final appeal tag day to boost the World Refugee Year fund will be held by the Victoria branch today, from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

A benefit show and auction of paintings donated by seven Victoria artists will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Husband, 3150 Rutland, at 3 p.m.

A collection of drawings by cartoonist Ronald Searle will be on display in Eaton's window until Tuesday.

The prescription called for sodium sulphate, a mild stomach powder. But the bottle supplied to Mrs. Roy contained strychnine sulphate, a poison.

Summit

Both Sides Blamed

LONDON (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and the United States were both criticized yesterday by the Archbishop of Canterbury for the U-2 spy plane incident and the summit breakup.

The head of the Church of England, the Most Rev. Geoffrey Francis Fisher, rebuked Khrushchev for his "abusive" language in attacking the United States and President Eisenhower.

He also criticized America for its lack of "good manners" in not apologizing at once for the spy plane incident.

Writing in his monthly diocesan notes, the archbishop said:

"The more Khrushchev said, the more abusive and, therefore, the more ineffective to any sensible person he became; and where he expected to gain credit somewhere he has, I should think, lost credit everywhere."

NIKOLI BOBROVNIKOV
... splattered

Youth Arrested

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—The visiting mayor of Moscow was splattered with a raw egg Friday by a man local residents said they thought was the son of a Lithuanian refugee who suffered under Communist rule.

Ged Janusonis, 20, of this city, was arrested in connection with the incident and charged with disturbing the peace. He was released on $200 bail.

The incident occurred while Mayor Nikoli Bobrovnikov was posing for photographs in front of the province of Ontario's Refectory Restaurant at Queen Victoria Park near Niagara Falls.

While sightseers were making way for television star Hugh O'Brien (Wyatt Earp) who was to pose with the visiting Russian mayor, a man walked calmly through ranks of plainclothed police, took the egg from his pocket and hurled it, striking the mayor on the neck.

The egg splattered members of the mayor's party, including O'Brien.

Mayor Bobrovnikov casually allowed his coat to be cleaned off and instructed photographers to continue taking photographs.

Also in the party and sprinkled with parts of the egg were Mayor George Nelms of Ottawa and interpreter William Kereluk, an RCAF squadron leader.

"The fellow came up from behind," said photographer Roy Crogan. "The first thing I knew, O'Brien flung up his arm trying to ward off the egg. But it was too late."

"He may be the fastest gun in the west, but this guy was faster."

MPs Feared Dead

Airliner, 51 Lost In Brazilian Bay

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—A twin-engined Brazilian airliner with 51 persons aboard crashed Friday night in Guanabara Bay and search teams said they found no survivors.

The crash was confirmed by navy search teams who found pieces of wreckage floating in the bay about 10 miles from downtown Rio.

The Real Aerovias plane, headed here from Brasilia, was believed to be carrying 14 members of Brazil's parliament going home for the weekend.

The airliner, unable to land because of bad weather, circled Rio for some time before heading out over Guanabara Bay.

The plane last reported to the tower at Santos Dumont airport here it was approaching the field at an altitude of about 1,800 feet near an island in the bay.

After this report, the plane's radio suddenly went off. It was raining at the time.

Real Airlines said the Con-vaire left Brasilia with 17 passengers and a crew of three. It picked up 31 passengers at Belo Horizonte about half way between Rio and Brasilia.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Curator Alan Best of Stanley Park Zoo warned Friday that a bear is loose in the park.

Venezuela

Assassins Miss President

CARACAS (AP)—Hidden assassins set off a dynamite blast by remote control in a parked car alongside Venezuela's President Romulo Betancourt Friday, but he escaped with only minor injuries.

The cabinet was called into emergency session.

The blast of the cached explosives killed three persons and injured eight.

Interior Minister Luis Augusto Dubuc blamed the attack on followers of deposed dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez and "foreign enemies" of Venezuela—concretely, the dictatorship of the Dominican Republic.

About two hours after the blast, the government announced closure of the country's borders and airports. There was no explanation but it seemed probable a revolt was in the wind, or the government feared one.

Mainland Scheme Probed

By R. O. MARRION

City council, its View Street parking and mall plan defeated at the polls, will seek some other way of preventing downtown deterioration from traffic and parking congestion.

"There's no use being downhearted. We've just got to put our thinking caps on, every one of us," Ald. Arthur Dowell said yesterday, and Mayor Percy Scourrah and the rest of council agreed.

ENQUIRY

For a start, council approved a suggestion by Ald. Hugh Ramsay that it enquire into the possibility of the Vancouver Downtown Parking Corporation extending its non-profit operations to Victoria.

IT'S WELCOME

"It will be very welcome," said Mayor Scourrah. "I can assure you of that — any plan that promises some possibility of improving the situation." Council filed the bylaw defeated at the polls, and the companion bylaw to establish a meter-revenue reserve fund for the parking-facility debt redemption.

PUT IN ARCHIVES

"Put it in the archives," Ald. Dowell said.

But council may still establish a reserve fund for parking facilities. It asked the finance committee to consider this matter.

Ald. Rev. J. L. W. McLean wondered what council should infer from the defeat of the bylaw—"How are we to interpret the result of the vote? Are we through trying to do something, or is it just this plan that was turned down?"

PARTICULAR PLAN

"I think it was just this particular plan," Mayor Scourrah replied, adding that the problem remained and "it's up to us to find some other way of alleviating the situation."

Ald. McLean suggested that council might have been looking at the problem from one angle instead of several, including the shopper's.

REAL CONCERN

"Well, speaking for myself, there was real concern on my part to see it go through because I can foresee the effect it's going to have on downtown property if we don't grapple with the problem some way."

Island to Idaho: 700 Miles in Month

Note, Bottle Found in Fish—It's True!

This fish story is told by Michael Cross, 22, assistant lighthouse keeper at Sheringham, on the west coast of Vancouver Island 30 miles from Victoria.

Even he finds it difficult to believe—but he has a letter to prove it.

A month ago he placed a note with his address on it in a bottle and tossed it into the Pacific Ocean.

Last week he received a letter from a girl in Lewiston, Idaho, which said she found his note and the bottle—inside a 46½-inch silver salmon.

She had caught the fish in the Snake River, a tributary of the Columbia.

Nancy Struve, 641 Eighteenth Ave., Lewiston, was cleaning the fish when she found the prize. She wrote: "I was really happy . . . my friends didn't believe me at first, so I showed them the bottle."

The fish apparently picked up the bottle somewhere between Sheringham and Portland. Then it covered about 320 miles up the Columbia to the Snake River. Total distance to Lewiston is close to 700 miles.

"The more I think of it the more I realize how fantastic it is," said Mr. Cross. "Bottles get washed up on the beach every day but they don't get into the middle of the United States by fish express every day."

"I'll be lucky if anyone believes it. That's why I'm hanging on to the original letter."
